Antioch has plans for the Fourth of July

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Even though a three-day weekend is upon us, be certain to save some energy for Antioch's official Fourth of July celebration on Monday.

Bright and early Monday at 8 a.m. the State of the Lakes Bank will start their 5K Run/Fun Walk. It begins at Cunningham Drive and Poplar Avenue. Contestants should arrive between 6 and 7:45 a.m. at which time they can pick up their registration, packet and race chip for timing.

There will be prizes for first-second- and third-place male and female winners, plus additional winners will be selected by age groups. T-shirts will be given to the first 1,200 participants who pick up their race packets.

The "Big Parade" will proceed down Main Street at 10 a.m. beginning at the high school and going to Williams Park at 741 Main Street.
The theme of the parade is 'Volunteers — the Heart of Antioch' and will include representatives from volunteer groups. The representatives will serve as Grand Marshals of the parade.

Before the parade begins, the Antioch Community Chorus will begin entertaining the waiting crowds at 9:30 a.m. The parade will end at the park with bike, costume and pet contests, with winners being announced at the park.

What would the holiday be without food? That's not a problem since local organizations will be selling corn on the cob, grilled brats, hamburgers and hot dogs along with cheesy fries and pizza. For

Open Arms Mission needs help to provide help

Need knows no season

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Summer is here and people like to think the worries of the world dissipate in the sunshine. For many, trying to keep warm in the winter has simply changed to trying to keep cool in the heat.

It's not the holiday season of giving, but need doesn't go away.

The Open Arms Mission in Antioch is there to help people in Antioch and Lake Villa townships for a fifth year. It is run completely by volunteer, and is more than a food pantry.

"A box of food is the least of what we do. We are ears to listen and arms to hug," said volunteer Cindy McMahon of Lake Villa. She has volunteered her time at the mission for more than three years. "We do well with over 100 people coming through our doors plus more than 40 home-bound clients, every week."

In February the mission moved to a new location at the south end of Antioch — rather than in the multi-level, less convenient space of St.
Peter's Church in Antioch. That was possible because a local family volunteered to pay the $2,000 a month rent for the first year.

"We're seeing an increased number of seniors who are requesting assistance since we've been here," said Scott Keenan who volunteers to do administrative duties. He is also the pastor at the Community Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Villa.

Firefighters prove to be a multi-talented group

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

The Antioch firefighters started to get breakfast ready at 5 a.m.
Sunday morning. They had two hours to get everything in place for more than 1,000 hungry guests coming to Fire Station One for breakfast.

"It was a steady stream of people all the way to noon," Lt. Chris Leinhardt said. The cooks had three tables to keep up a steady stream of pancakes, and they were kept busy for five hours straight. They also served sausage and beverages at the all-you-can-eat buffet.

The firefighters were grateful for the help from the Antioch Junior Woman's Club and the Civic Club.

Like last year, the department sold T-shirts for children, and sales were brisk.

The Antioch Fire Department had a lot of apparatus set up so residents could see the tools of their trade. In addition to the fire trucks, which the children loved exploring, the public also had a chance to see diving equipment for special rescue and technical rescue.

The department also brought over the Quad II airboat that is shared with the northwest quadrant of Lake County fire districts and departments. Fox Lake loaned their all terrain vehicle and a golf cart to shuttle those to their parking spot to settle those who needed a little extra help-back to their parking place.

The clean-up after the breakfast was relatively quick, Leinhardt said. It only took about 70 people about an hour and a half, he said.

The department still needs to finalize their accounting, but Leinhardt estimates the fundraiser brought in between $16,000 to

Be prepared for tornado season

A tornado is one of nature's most powerful and devastating weather events, which can happen anywhere with little or no warning. A tornado appears as a funnel shaped, rotating cloud that may or may not touch the ground. These funnel clouds can produce winds with speeds close to 200 mph. These storms are often compared to a train due to the amount of noise associated with them. Here are a few facts you should know:

Know the difference between a Tornado Watch & Tornado Warning:

A tornado watch means conditions are favorable for the development of a tornado. This does not mean a tornado will occur.

A tornado warning means a Tornado has been sighted by trained observers, and upon receiving a warning for your area, you should proceed to a safe place and listen to a battery-operated radio for further instruction.

Be prepared, when the weather looks threatening, tune into to your local weather channel or radio station to obtain the most current information regarding your area. There are certain things you should bring with you to your place of shelter, they include a battery powered flashlight & radio, some non-perishable food items and your car keys. After a storm your car may still be operable yet your keys would be lost in the rubble.

When a tornado has been sighted, stay away from windows, doors and outside walls. If you are at home or in a place with a basement you should go there, if there is no basement go to the lowest point in the interior of the building. This also is true for high-rise buildings; chances are there are pre-determined areas set up as shelters, so check with staff in the building. If you are driving in your car, trailer or mobile home, get out immediately and seek shelter in a more substantial structure.

Once a storm is over there will be hazards that will have to be dealt with and dangerous situations that can be minimized by being aware of them.

Any building that was in the path of a storm must be treated as unstable, and should be entered with great caution, chances are the walls, ceilings or supports may have been damaged. There may be large amounts of broken glass and debris that could cause injury, and downed power lines must always be treated as if they were energized.

Once you are sure everyone is safe, notify your relatives that you are okay so they do not have authorities looking for you since they had not heard from you.

Remember they key to handling an emergency is to be prepared.

Antioch residents opens resale consignment shop

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

A new store has blossomed in downtown Antioch. Rose of Sharon Ladies' retail apparel that are resale items on consignment. Long-time Antioch resident Sharon Westbrook is the owner and is very particular about what she accepts. This is nothing like a thrift shop.

"I am very particular and scrutinize every item," Westbrook said. She accepts only season consignments in excellent condition that are still in fashion, pressed and on a hanger.

"I price it and the consigner gets half (of the selling price). It's a nice deal for consigners who gained or lost weight or simply didn't wear the clothes after they were purchased," she said. "I'm getting some beautiful stuff. Some clothes even have the original price tags on them." Westbrook puts out new items every day.

Many of the items are from well-respected companies such as Evan Piccone, New York and Company, Liz Claiborne, Cache, the Gap and others. Clothing is stocked in juniors, misses, women's and plus sizes. Most of the tops in Rose of Sharon are priced between $6 to $35.

The Rose of Sharon carries formal wear, dress clothes, casual clothes, business clothes, shoes, accessories and some maternity clothes that can be tried on in two fitting rooms.

Although this is Westbrook's first storefront location, she has years of sales experience working in similar stores in the past.

"I knew I wanted to open this kind of store for a long time. This is what I like," she said. "I think it's a nice service to the community and I think my prices are reasonable. They can save time and money by shopping here."

Westbrook still has a lot of stock to process but she is hoping to find some local jewelers who create one-of-a-kind pieces that she can offer.

The Rose of Sharon opened about two weeks ago, but the official opening is being celebrated this Saturday morning. Westbrook is even offering a special coupon elsewhere in this paper.

She accepts merchandise for consignment by appointment, which can be made by calling 847-838-1227. If there is no parking in the front of her store, there is a large parking lot behind it. Store hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Grass Lakes rummage sale sold almost everything

The Grass Lakes School rummage sale netted approximately $7,500, and they sold most of what they had. The sum is about $2,500 less than last year, but Sharon Goebel, who was in charge of the sale, said there was a good reason. Last year the group began collecting donations about two months earlier, and therefore had more "merchandise."

"We sold a large amount of what we had. What's left will go to charity, and we want to thank everyone who helped," Goebel said.

A new restaurant will be coming to town at the location of the former DiMarco's Restaurant.

Binanti's Taste of Italy plans to open for business after Labor Day. If that's just too long to wait, the good news is the new restaurant has plans to take part in the Taste of Antioch later in the month.

For those who are really impatient, they can take an even closer look by stopping in at their first Binanti's Taste of Italy in Silver Lakes, Wis.

Downtown Antioch has another grand opening beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, complete with ribbon-cuttings by Mayor Dorothy Larson. The newcomers are Rose of Sharon on Main Street and Cigars, Cards and More on Lake Street. Stop in and welcome the newcomers to downtown.

The volunteer parent group, Sequoit Pride, is sponsoring its tenth annual golf outing and dinner on July 10. If you want to get involved as a sponsor or participant contact the group at 847-395-3004 as soon as possible. It will be at the Antioch Golf Club, 40150 North Route 59.

The volunteer group has donated more than $100,000 during the past five years for education and extracurricular activities at ACHS.

Another upcoming Antioch event is the "Art on the Lawn and Ice Cream Social," scheduled for July 31 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. The Arts Foundation Gallery and the Meeting House Museum will be open. The Lakes Region Historical Society restored the 1863 Meeting House three years ago. It is the oldest building in Antioch and is full of Antioch memorabilia that documents the village's history. It is also open on the first Sunday of the month from noon to 3 p.m.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Ginny Skweres at 847-223-8161, ext. 154 or e-mail, ginnys@lakelandmedia.com

Concerts begin at Brook

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

Dog center provides canine care

By Kathy Gresey
Staff Reporter

Dog owners have a new option when it comes to health care for their animals.

The recently opened Canine Sports Medicine Center in Lake Villa offers a wide variety of treatment options for dogs of all shapes and sizes.

The mission of the center is to provide the same level of care for dogs that owners would expect for themselves. It offers surgery and dental services, rehabilitation, chiropractic care and preventative medicine care in a clean and friendly environment.

Education is also a key part of the center's mission, said Dr. Christina Barcus.

"Some dog owners don't understand the basics," said Barcus. "Things like diet and exercise can prevent (health) problems."

Barcus has five years of experience in emergency and critical care. She has treated cases ranging from complicated internal medicine problems to trauma in dogs.

She is a member of the American Veterinary Medical Association, American Animal Hospital Association, American Canine Sports Medicine Association and the American Veterinary Chiropractic Association.

Veterinary technician Michelle Donehay has worked with Barcus for about 5 years and has been at the clinic since it opened about five months ago. She said that Barcus is adamant about explaining everything to her clients and is especially concerned about the eating habits of dogs.

"She likes to keep all her dogs trim," she said.

Chris Rodriguez has been bringing her 2-year-old Tibetan terrier "Maggie" to Barcus since the dog was a puppy. She also brings two other dogs to the clinic.

Rodriguez said she likes coming to Barcus because she is good to her dogs and always takes her time.

"She knows her clients. (The center) is clean," she said. "It's beautiful."

Canine Sports Medicine Center is located at 34740 N. Route 45 in Lake Villa. For more information call 847-986-DOGG.

Antioch Police deals with strange encounters

By Ginny Skweres
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Police Department dealt with two unusual cases this week.

James Reed, 61, who had been staying at 10007 Spafford St., was wanted on a warrant from Wisconsin, which was not known by his host.

Reed was arrested by the Antioch Police Department last week because he was wanted on a Wisconsin warrant for failing to register as a sex offender. He had been released in December from the Wisconsin Department of Corrections after serving 15 years for the first-degree sexual assault of a child.

He is being held in the Lake County jail awaiting extradition to Wisconsin.

"There's no reason to believe there were any incidents during his stay in Antioch," said Commander Craig Somerville of the Antioch Police Department.

In a different case, an Antioch Police Officer was assaulted.

Bart Moe, 44, of 428 Fillweber Court, Antioch, became combative with police officers when they approached him where he was laying in the parking lot of the State Bank of the Lakes around midnight on June 24. He appeared to be highly intoxicated, police said.

Moe kicked and punched officers until he could be cuffed. An officer had some minor lacerations on his forearm and is fine.

Moe was charged with assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest. He is scheduled to appear in court on July 18.

OPEN ARMS

Alphanni Short, 11, goes through the aisles of canned goods in the back room of the Open Arms Mission in Antioch. The mission donates food to needy residents and is always in need of food and volunteer support. For more information call (847) 385-0309.

need has probably always been there," Keenan said. Sometimes seniors have to decide if they should spend their money on food or prescribed medicine, and the food pantry can help meet that need, he said.

The not-for-profit organization goes through 800 gallons of milk each month and 16 pallets of food. Some of the food is purchased from the Northern Illinois Food Bank, where the dollar goes a lot further. When they are totally out of an item, a volunteer often goes to local grocery stores in search of specific donations.

The food pantry is open from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. Clients can come in once a week without any other restrictions. Each week they fill out a list of their food needs and meet with a counselor while the order is being put together. If the items are available, the clients receive them.

James Short has been a volunteer at the mission for a year and brings his children to help.

"This is a blessing from God for all who hunger for food, and those who hunger for good should also hunger for God," he said.

Since churches and their members are volunteers are frequent volunteers, a spiritual influence filters through the mission. Keenan opens each pick-up day with a prayer of thanksgiving for all that is available.

Prayer and religion are not a requirement at the mission, but there are recipients who have commented it was the first time they had prayed in years. Spirituality is one more resource available to individuals.

During this time counselors meet with clients to see how they are doing in general. The mission partners with other services and has a list of resources that can help with a variety of issues.

In addition to the food pantry, the Open Arms Mission saw a need for homeless women and children and created the Mother Teresa Home which has five bedrooms and two bathrooms. The homes provide safe community living for those in need.

There was one room vacant last week, but Keenan said he had fielded three calls asking about the Mother Teresa Home in just that week.

Since volunteers run the Open Arms Mission, all donations are appropriated as requested. There are three areas to donate cash. One is for food for the pantry account, one is for the Mother Teresa Home and the third is for operating expenses, such as utilities, telephone service, insurance and office supplies. When the year ends, the mission will need an additional $2,000 a month for rent. The volunteers are hoping individuals, businesses or corporations will sponsor an area of need for a specific time period.

More information is available at 847-395-0309. All donations are tax-deductible and can be mailed to P.O. Box 79, Antioch, IL, 60002.

POLICEBEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in court. Information in Police Beat comes from police departments.

Outstanding Warrant

Paul Bartell, 24, of 37975 North Nora Place, Spring Grove was stopped after he squealed his tires and drove at a high rate of speed as he traveled westbound on Route 173. Upon checking his plates, the Antioch police officer realized he was wanted on an outstanding warrant for disorderly conduct.

He was charged with squealing his tires and he paid a $5,000 cash bond for not appearing in court for his warrant. He is scheduled to appear in court of July 6 on the warrant charge and on July 27 for the traffic violation.

Driving Without a license

Gary L. Duval, 60, of 11128 270th Street, Trevor, Wis., was stopped by police for disobeying a traffic sign, and police learned his driver's license was suspended. He was charged with both offenses and is scheduled to appear in court on July 27. He was released on personal recognizance.

Oscar Pizano, 28, of 3317 Judy Lane, Park City, was stopped as she drove northbound on Main Street near Park for having a defective windshield. A check of his records indicated his driver's license was suspended. He was released on personal recognizance and is scheduled to appear in court on July 27.

Demarkous L. Francis, 23, of 1681 W. Kayle,

Waukegan, was stopped after his vehicle crossed the centerline and his side windows were darkened. The officer discovered a child laying in the backseat without a safety restraint, and that his license was suspended.

He was charged with driving while license suspended, obstructed side windows, improper lane usage and failure to secure a child. He was released on personal recognizance and is scheduled to appear in court on Aug. 10.

Gabriel T. Guadarrama, 19, of 519 Longview Ave., Antioch, was stopped for not wearing a seat belt. Police learned he was driving while his license was suspended. He was released on personal recognizance bond. He is scheduled to appear in court on July 27.

DUI ARRESTS

The following people have been arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs

Mary Jane Gledhill, 89, of 12345 Saskatchewan Terrace, Deerfield, by Lindenhurst Police, on Sept. 22. Gledhill was driving a white 2001 Ford Mustang.

Marilyn Jane Skrzymlarz, 89, of 12345 Saskatchewan Terrace, Deerfield, by Lindenhurst Police, on Sept. 22. Gledhill was driving a white 2001 Ford Mustang.

Play it safe on the Fourth

With the Fourth of July just around the corner it's important to remember to play it safe when it comes to fireworks. The Antioch Fire Department reminds residents that fireworks are exciting to watch but they can be extremely dangerous to play with or touch.

Did you know that, according to the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), in 2000 about 11,000 people were taken to hospital emergency rooms because of injuries from fireworks? That is including bottle rockets, sparklers and firecrackers. Injuries involving the hands, fingers, head, face, and eyes are among the most common. Some of these injuries are severe, resulting in permanent health problems such as missing fingers and limbs and vision loss. The Fire Department urges everyone to follow the tips listed below:

Attend only public fireworks displays put on by trained professionals and stay back at least 500 feet from the display. Besides being the safer way to see fireworks, public fireworks displays are more spectacular than anything you'll see at home.

Children should never play with fireworks. Things like firecrackers, rockets, and spinners are just too dangerous. If you give your child a sparkler, make sure he keeps it outside and away from his face, clothing, and hair. Sparklers can reach 1800 degrees Fahrenheit, which is hot enough to melt gold.

Don't allow your child to pick up pieces of fireworks after an event. Some may still be ignited and can explode at any time. Steer clear of others - fireworks have been known to backfire or shoot off in the wrong direction. Never throw or point fireworks at someone, even in jest.

Never re-light a "dud" firework. Instead, wait 15 to 20 minutes and then soak it in a bucket of water.

Anyone who needs further information can contact the Antioch Fire Department at 847-395-5511.

Mayor and Mrs. Betustak came through on their promises for District 41 fund-raiser

By Ginny Skweres

Staff Reporter

Way back in March the Parent Teacher Organization of Elementary District 41 raised $42,000 with their Spring Fling Event and silent auction held at Midlane Country Club.

One of items being auctioned off was two offerings of dinner for six, to be provided and served by Mayor Jim Betustak and his wife Jan. The mayor and his wife followed through with their donations and served dinner at Las Palmas Restaurant in Lindenhurst last week.

"It was fantastic," Ann Nelson of the PTO said. "The food was excellent. The service was excellent. It was a good time and absolutely worth every penny."

The winning bidders were Kurt and Terry Hansen, John and Terry Goth, John and Carol Hill all of Lake Villa who enjoyed their meal, with the other winning bidders Pete and Sally Bennes of Lindenhurst and, and Hunt and Anne Nelson and Mike and Julie Finney, all of Round Lake Beach.

"Jan took all of our orders on a piece of paper and got everything right," Nelson said. The Betustaks served the entire meal with very little help from the regular servers.

"We all chipped in for a tip and they shared it with the regular servers," Nelson said.

This fundraiser benefited all schools in the district, which are Hooper, Palombi, Pleviak, Martin and Thompson schools.

Some of the other attractive items included an LA Spa donated by Aqua Pool & Spa in Lindenhurst, a week in a condo on Anna Maria Island, Florida donated by Keith and Mary Kaye Depperschmidt, a Lasik eye surgery donated by Dr. Mitchell Jackson of Center for Advanced Eyecare in Lake Villa, and more than 400 items donated by local businesses and families in Lake Villa and Lindenhurst.

If you missed out on this opportunity, don't despair. Plans are already under way for next year's event on March 18 at the Midlane Country Club.

Judge agrees to release Gavin funds

By Steve Peterson

Staff Reporter

Lake County Circuit Court Judge David Hall agreed with parties involved in the Gavin District 37 and Citizens United for a Responsible Board (CURB), as a settlement was approved June 29.

CURB and taxpayers had sued the district regarding $7 million that the state had awarded Gavin in special emergency funding. CURB contended that this is unconstitutional.

The agreement releases the funds to the district as of the court session in Waukegan.

"CURB was not asking for monetary funds, but an accounting for expenditures. We have agreed to put the best efforts of the board of education forward to repairing Gavin Central," said Gavin School Board President Barb Mende.

Gavin Central has been closed since March, 2004 due to structural concerns.

The release of the funds ends a potential for the state take-over of the Ingleside district's finances.

School board members met the evening of June 29 to approve a more positive budget for 2005-06 due to the funds being released.

Familiar 'Little Shop of Horrors'

A speckled series of talents

Staff Reporter

Imagine a concert series that features a world-famous dance show, followed by a Christmas concert, a classic rock cover, tribute a Broadway musical and more. It sounds like an eclectic mix of entertainment, but officials at the Genesee Theatre hope it will catch on and bring a more diverse crowd to downtown Waukegan.

The Genesee recently launched its concert series, set to kickoff with comedian George Carlin in September. But Carlin fans may be surprised with some of the other acts that follow. There are musicals, one-man-shows and tumbling acts.

Michelle Wilmoth, marketing manager at the Genesee said she hopes outside audiences will hook on to the series promotion. The series offers subscribers nine different shows at discounted prices. It also offers advanced ticket sales.

Subscription to the series costs $10. And all subscribers are required to purchase tickets to at least four shows. All subscribers are allowed to choose the shows they want to attend, Wilmoth said.

They do not, however, choose seats. All seats are sold in one of three levels. Level one being the closest to the stage and the most expensive, and levels two and three decrease in costs and proximity in the 2,400-seat theater.

In the few weeks since the series launched, the Genesee has seen a lot of interest, Wilmoth said. Many subscribers have even purchased tickets to all nine shows. In fact, series subscribers are the only people who have guaranteed seats to the shows.

Carlin's show, and a

Christmas Show look to be the most popular shows of the season, Wilmoth said. The Genesee expects those to sell out immediately, but subscribers will already have tickets.

And even when tickets of the other shows go on sale to the public, Wilmoth said she expects they will be slightly more expensive than they are offered to subscribers. The average ticket for series subscribers is $45 for level 1 tickets, down to $27 for level 3 tickets.

All shows in the series are being promoted by Chicago-based Jam Theatricals.

Jam does a number of concert series throughout the county, and has seen positive results, said director of promotions Scott Sampson.

If it proves successful in Waukegan, Wilmoth said the Genesee would probably bring the series back next season as well.

Additional information on the concert series is available at the theater's Web site, www.genesee-theatre.com or by calling 847-406-3156.

Show times and dates for the series are as follows:

George Carlin at 7 p.m. on Sept. 16. Carlin's comedy show and his observations on politics, the media, big business, religion and language have entertained fans for decades. This show is intended for mature audiences only.

Cirque Dreams at 8 p.m. on Oct. 28. Cirque Dreams is billed as a burst of colors, costumes and performance. The show features acrobats and contortionists, among other entertaining performers.

Mark Twain Tonight at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 8. Mark Twain Tonight is a one-man-show featuring Hal Holbrook. The performance is a recreation of Twain's own book lectures.

Riverdance at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 29. Riverdance is a performance focusing on Irish music, song and dance. The show has toured the world, where more than 12 million people have seen it.

Anne Murray

Christmas Show at 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 14. Murray is a four-time Grammy Award winner. Her Christmas show features some of her favorite holiday tunes from her well-known album, What A Wonderful Christmas, as well as some of her greatest hits.

Blast! at 7:30 p.m. on January 26, 2006. Blast! is a combination of music and theatre that involves 27 brass and percussion performers. The show features various genres of music.

Led Zeppelin Rock Symphony at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 16, 2006. The show is a mixture of rock and classical music. It features an orchestra and a rock band. Nearly 20 Led Zeppelin songs are covered.

The Ten Tenors at 8 p.m. on March 4, 2006. The Tenors are a group of performers who have toured the world performing with some of the biggest acts in music. Their performances are a mix of artistry, musicianship and comedy.

Gentlemen Prefer Blondes at 7:30 p.m. on April 12, 2006. Gentlemen Prefer Blondes is a musical set in the 1920s, which follows the adventures of a chorus girl.

Familiar 'Little Shop of Horrors' takes root in Chicago revival

By Tom Witom

Audrey II, the creepy, bloodthirsty people-eating plant that dominates "Little Shop of Horrors," is having another go at taking over the world.

This time the national touring company from a production that opened on Broadway in October 2003 has sprouted at the Auditorium Theatre in Chicago.

Directed by Jerry Zacks and choreographed by Kathleen Marshall, the show features book and lyrics by the late Howard Ashman and music by Alan Menken.

The dark musical comedy, based on the 1960 Roger Corman film of the same name, enjoyed a successful history on the stage since its premiere in 1982.

It's set in a faltering floral shop in a run-down New York neighborhood whose fortunes are suddenly reversed by the discovery of a never-before-seen plant.

The eye-popping props still impress and some touching well-known musical numbers ("Somewhere That's Green" and "Suddenly Seymour") are nicely executed, but the show's overall "wow" factor has diminished.

An adequate but underpowered cast that's occasionally drowned out by the orchestra doesn't help, nor does the theater's cavernous space which is more suited as a venue for less intimate productions. The end result: a cute but limp show.

Jonathan Rayson stars as the self-effacing, nerdy Seymour ("strange plants are my hobby"); he is caught up by his instant celebrity status and the accompanying perks but torn by the ethical compromises necessary to achieve it. Tari Kelly plays "a woman with a past," his attractive co-worker who's stuck in a destructive relationship with a sadistic dentist (James Moya).

Lenny Wolpe, as Mushnik, the pushy shopkeeper rooted in self-interest, seemed only to be going through the motions.

However, a three-member chorus —

Yasmeen Suleman as Chiffon; Latonya Holmes as Ronnette and Dana Dawson as Crystal (filling in for Amina S. Robinson) — provided a flashy backup.

And give special credit goes to Michael James Leslie, the unseen but ever-demanding voice of Audrey II. The "Audrey II" puppets are the creative work of the Jim Henson Workshop and Martin P. Robinson. Part orchid (Ladyslipper) and part Venus Flytrap, Audrey II appears in four iterations, growing from hand-puppet size to an impressive five-ton, 18-foot tall colossus manipulated by special high-tech equipment.

'Jesus Christ Superstar' presented at CLC

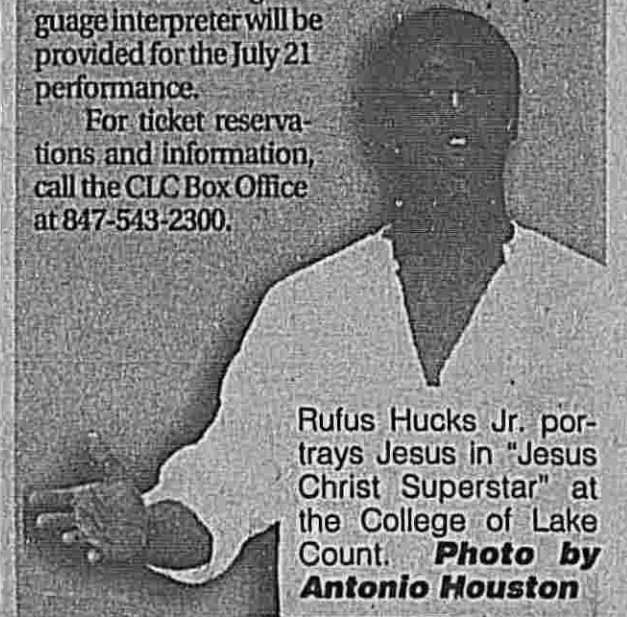

The musical "Jesus Christ Superstar" will be presented July 15 to 17 and July 21 to 23 in the Studio Theatre at the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts on the College of Lake County Grayslake Campus. "Jesus Christ Superstar" features music by Andrew Lloyd Webber and lyrics by Tim Rice. At the heart of this first true rock opera is the social and political story of Jesus' final days.

The "Superstar" cast of 45 includes CLC students and members of the community. The show is directed by Craig Rich, with musical direction by Jean Hersey, orchestral direction by Paul Hefner, choreography by Amy Lyn McDonald, set and costume design by Thomas B. Mitchell and lighting design by Jeremy Eiden.

"There is no spoken dialog in the show — everything is sung," said Craig Rich, a theatre instructor at CLC. "So the actors really have to concentrate on creating a character and telling a story through song. I'm really excited about the quality of our singers. And what we've found is that this show has a following. People who love it come see the show wherever it's done," Rich said.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" will be presented at 7:30 p.m. July 15 to 16; at 2 p.m. July 17 and at 7:30 p.m. July 21 to 23. Admission is $15 for the general public and $12 for CLC staff, students and members of the Alumni Association. A sign language interpreter will be provided for the July 21 performance.

For ticket reservations and information, call the CLC Box Office at 847-543-2300.

Starr-gazing at the Genesee

Ringo Starr and the Roundheads play Genesee for Soundstage concert

By Marc Jenkins
Managing editor

Ringo Starr made one thing perfectly clear on his stop at the Genesee Theater: There won't be any reunion.

The man who is most known for putting the beat in the Beatles for eight of the band's 10-year career, came to Waukegan—along with his band, the Roundheads—for one of a handful of shows to promote his new album "Choose Love," released earlier this month.

Most came to hear Starr sing the tunes of yesteryear, namely those he helped make famous with The Beatles. He didn't disappoint, devoting eight of his 20-song set list to Beatles songs, including "Octopus' Garden," "Act Naturally," "Yellow Submarine" and a rousing rendition of "I Want To Be Your Man," which brought the sold-out crowd to its feet early in the show.

Meeting the media here with greetings of "Peace and love, peace and love," Starr showed his talents as a visual artist as well, by showing off his series of computer-generated artwork.

Starr, who will be 65 on July 7, gave a glimmer of hope to a future Beatles reunion when he quipped before the concert, "Oh yeah, Paul's coming in tonight."

Even though it's the dream reunion for Beatles fans, you shouldn't hold your breath waiting for it to happen.

And although he's been asked that question thousands of times, Starr still took the reunion question in stride. He gave reporters the impression that he and Paul McCartney were not in close contact with each other.

"I've got my band, he's got his," Starr said. "It's never going to happen. We're doing other things now. We were in a band ... It had its time."

Expect Starr to be true to his word, as the last time the Beatles members were even in the same place together was in 1998 when the two, along with George Harrison, gathered at a memorial service for Linda McCartney, who had died of breast cancer.

Given that Starr's body of solo work includes a whopping 23 albums (14 studio), he's doing just fine, thank you very much.

Starr's impressions of Waukegan? "No different than Liverpool, England."

"Someone told me about the history of Waukegan driving up here, about how the factories and industries were leaving," Starr said. "It's very quiet here."

And he added at the pre-concert interview that the Genesee "has good acoustics" as well.

If you didn't have the chance to see Starr's concert here, you're still in luck. PBS' Soundstage cameras recorded the concert in high-definition, for a later DVD release and to be shown locally on Channel 11 at a yet-to-be-determined date.

The house lights were almost all the way up for the entire show, as taping in hi-def requires more light.

Special guest Colin Hay (former frontman of Men At Work), sneaked in a two-song Ringo-less set kicked off with "Land Down Under" and later reappeared late in the show to croon "Who Can It Be Now" before joining the ensemble for the final three-song encore.

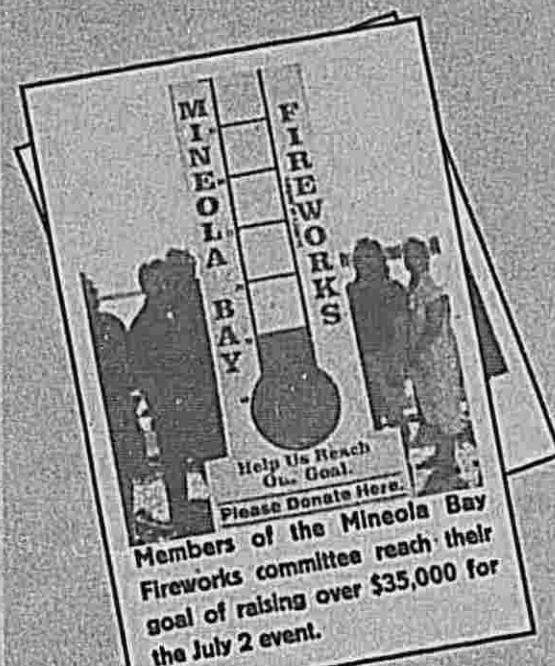

But Ringo came dangerously close to becoming overshadowed by Roundheads lead guitarist Mark Hudson, who showed he can play—and wail—like McCartney as he led a spirited grind of the Beatles' "You Can't Do That" and "Revolution No. 9," meanwhile Starr ducked out for the third time, after a small complaint about the rising temperature inside the theater.

Hudson's versatility on guitar and harmonica set the groundwork for a solid Starr performance. He never disappointed, but didn't do much to make the night special.

And when he got the loudest cheers of the night, a five-minute standing ovation after the final song "Get By With A Little Help From My Friends," he faded into backstage and into the night as peacefully as he came.

Father Knows Best

I needed to swallow my pride and call for help.

The kids had only been out of school two weeks and I was already drowning in dirty laundry and grimy fingerprints. I couldn't even make a meal without slipping on a kitchen floor littered with soggy dog chews...or worse. I hated to admit it, but I had a lot in common with our new puppy...both of us felt neglected and desperate for relief.

So I called my neighbor for advice. This household seemed to run like a Rolex, while mine was taking a lickin' and barely tickin'. The Zimmer's kitchen counters shined, the living room was devoid of dust, and the kids were well adjusted, along with the three dogs and cat.

My newfound domestic mentor ticked off the following advice: "pushing doesn't get you anywhere, consequences do," everything must have a place; and "have a schedule but realize that each day is different." This was topped off with some tasty but simple recipes...leave it to stay-at-home dad Tom to find the time to read "Fine Cooking."

Yes, housewives are facing some stiff competition from the rapidly growing number of stay-at-home dads—last tallied at two million. Still, the dads interviewed all felt isolated in a world of moms—so they've created their own support groups.

Leslie Glazier-Werner

For example, Greg Peters of Gurnee founded the North Lake County Stay At Home Dads Meet-up Group so that fathers like him would know, "they're not alone out there. There's a place they can go." Greg says dads from all over Lake County join their weekly playgroups, monthly field trips, and dad's nights out. Interested dads can contact Greg at 847-855-6994, or at website <http://sahd.meetup.com>.

And "At-Home Dad, Teacher, Writer, and Thumb-Twiddler" Jeff Kogan sees his group, NW Illinois SAHD, as "the at-home dad oasis in the at-home mom world." Jeff says the group attracts dads from throughout northwest Chicagoland by offering weekly playgroups and a variety of activities. Jeff can be reached at 847-477-1417 or the newly created website www.chicagodads.com.

Jeff also recommended journalist and at home dad Ad Hudler's novel, "Househusband," to understand what it's like to be a guy serving on the home front. Hudler's main character runs up against restrooms with no diaper changing area, wary moms, and prejudice from his own sex. Despite this, Hudler, a.k.a. "Linc Menner," shares the same feelings and frustrations as the typical mom, "I'm just like they are, I can do what they do, I can do it even better!" Yes you can...and all of you certainly deserve a happy Father's Day.

Flavors

Fresh blueberries bring home a taste of summer

Even if blueberries didn't have a healthy reputation for holding the highest antioxidant levels of all fruits and vegetables, we would still crave them for their delicious taste.

Hailed as the new "miracle fruit," blueberries are cited for their disease-fighting properties. They're our allies against a laundry list of health problems, from diabetes and Alzheimer's to Parkinson's and cancer.

In "Very Blueberry" (Celestial Arts) by Jennifer Trainer Thompson, the author offers 40 of her favorite recipes, from blueberry scones to roasted chicken salad with walnuts, apples and dried blueberries.

While supplies of fresh berries are plentiful, Thompson's Lemon-Poppy Seed Cake with Blueberry Compote makes a wonderful summertime dessert.

Tom Witom

COOKING BY THE BOOK

Lemon-Poppy Seed Cake with Blueberry Compote

Blueberry compote:

1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
2 Tbl. freshly squeezed lemon juice
2 1/2 cups fresh or thawed frozen blueberries
1 cup strawberries, hulled and quartered

2 large nectarines, pitted and cut into wedges

Cake:

1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
2/3 cup sugar
1/2 cup cornstarch

1 1/2 Tbl. poppy seeds
2 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
2 Tbl. butter
1 large egg
1 cup skim milk
2 tsp. freshly grated lemon zest
1 tsp. pure vanilla extract

To make the compote, place the water, sugar and lemon juice in a small saucepan and bring to a boil over medium heat. Continue to boil, stirring occasionally, until the sugar is dissolved, about two minutes. Remove from the heat and cool until just slightly warm. Stir in the vanilla, blueberries, strawberries and nectarines. Transfer to a small bowl and refrigerate.

To make the cake, preheat the oven to 350 degrees F. Grease an 8-inch cake pan with butter and dust with flour. In a large bowl, combine the flour, sugar, cornstarch, poppy seeds, baking powder and salt. Using a pastry blender or your fingers, blend in the butter until incorporated.

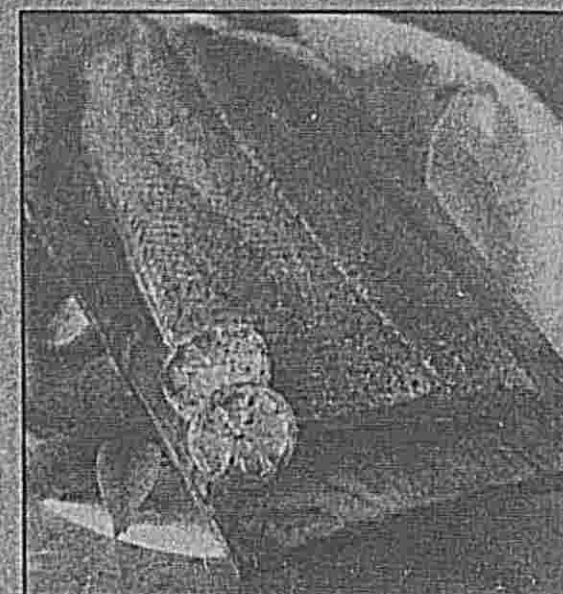

In a small bowl, beat the egg lightly with a whisk and stir in the milk, lemon zest and vanilla. Stir the milk mixture into the flour mixture just until blended, then pour into the pan. Bake for 35 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted into the center of the cake comes out clean.

Remove the cake from the oven and let cool in the pan for 10 minutes. Run a knife around the edge and bottom of the pan to loosen the cake, and transfer to a wire rack to cool.

Serve the cake on individual plates topped with 1/2 cup of the chilled fruit compote.

(Serves 8)

Order up!

Wild Alaska Seafood

Grilling Tips Preparing the Grill

- Fish cooks best over a medium-hot fire; shellfish require a hot grill.
- Make sure the grill is hot before you start cooking.
- Liberally brush oil on the grill just prior to cooking.

Grilling Fish and Shellfish

- Cut large steaks or filets into meal-size portions before grilling.
- Use a grill basket or perforated grill rack to keep flaky fish or smaller shellfish from falling through the grill bars.
- Brush fish or shellfish with oil very lightly just before cooking.
- Always start to grill fish with the skin side up. (If the skin has been removed, the skin side will appear slightly darker.) This allows the natural fat carried beneath the skin to be drawn into the fillet, keeping it rich and moist. It's also easier to turn when the more delicate or "flesh" side cooks first.
- Turn fish/shellfish only once. For easy turning, use a two-prong kitchen fork inserted between the grill bars to slightly lift fish filets or steaks, then slide a metal spatula under the fish and turn. Use long-handled tongs to turn shellfish.
- Cook fish approximately 10 minutes per inch of thickness. Fish/shellfish continues to cook after it's removed from the heat, so take it off the grill just as soon as it is opaque throughout. To check for doneness, slide a sharp knife tip into the center of the thickest part of a cooking seafood portion, checking for color. Remove from the heat just as soon as it turns from translucent to opaque throughout.

Sauces

Asian Glaze

- 3 tablespoons pure maple syrup
- 2 teaspoons fresh grated gingerroot
- 2 teaspoons lime juice
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1-1/2 teaspoons fresh minced garlic
- 1 bunch green onions, trimmed (for planking only)

Blend all ingredients. Rub on 1/2 to 1 teaspoon per portion or all onto Alaska salmon side. If planking, place green onions on plank; top with salmon.

Terrific Taj Rub

- 1 tablespoon garam masala (Indian spice)
- 1 to 2 teaspoons packed brown sugar, to taste
- 1 teaspoon coarse kosher salt
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 teaspoon paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon onion powder

Blend all ingredients. Rub on 1/2 to 1 teaspoon per portion or all onto Alaska salmon side.

Couscous Walnut Cherry Confetti

Couscous Walnut Cherry Confetti

- 2 1/3 cups water
- 1 teaspoon salt, plus more to taste if needed
- 1 1/2 cups (one 10-ounce box) dry couscous
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup chopped red onion
- 1 cup chopped red or green bell pepper, or a mixture
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh mint
- 1/2 teaspoon ground pepper
- 1 cup pitted Northwest fresh sweet cherries, coarsely chopped
- 1/2 cup toasted California walnuts, choppe
- Several leaves of butter lettuce or red leaf lettuce

Bring water and salt to boil in large saucepan (about 4-quart capacity — helps grains cook without sticking together). Stir in couscous, then cover pan and remove from heat. Let stand just 5 minutes.

Scrape couscous into large bowl. Add olive oil, then toss and fluff couscous with fork to separate grains and coat with oil. Cool to room temperature.

Add onion, bell pepper, lemon juice, mint and ground pepper. Stir and toss with fork to blend ingredients and flavorings. Taste, and add more salt if necessary. Add cherries and walnuts, then stir and toss to combine.

Place lettuce leaves around edge of serving bowl or platter, then mound salad in center.

Makes 6 servings

Cherry Lemon Sparkler

- 3 cups water
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup Northwest fresh sweet cherries, halved and pitted
- 1 cup fresh lemon juice, refrigerated
- Crushed ice
- 1 bottle (1 liter) club soda or seltzer
- Northwest fresh sweet cherries with stems
- 4 long stems fresh mint

Combine water and sugar in small saucepan; add halved cherries. Bring mixture to boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat and cool to room temperature. Strain syrup into container with tight fitting lid; discard cherries. Refrigerate syrup until cold.

For each serving: Fill tall 12- to 16-ounce glass with ice. Pour 1/4 cup lemon juice and 1/3 cup syrup over ice and top with club soda. Garnish with cherries and mint.

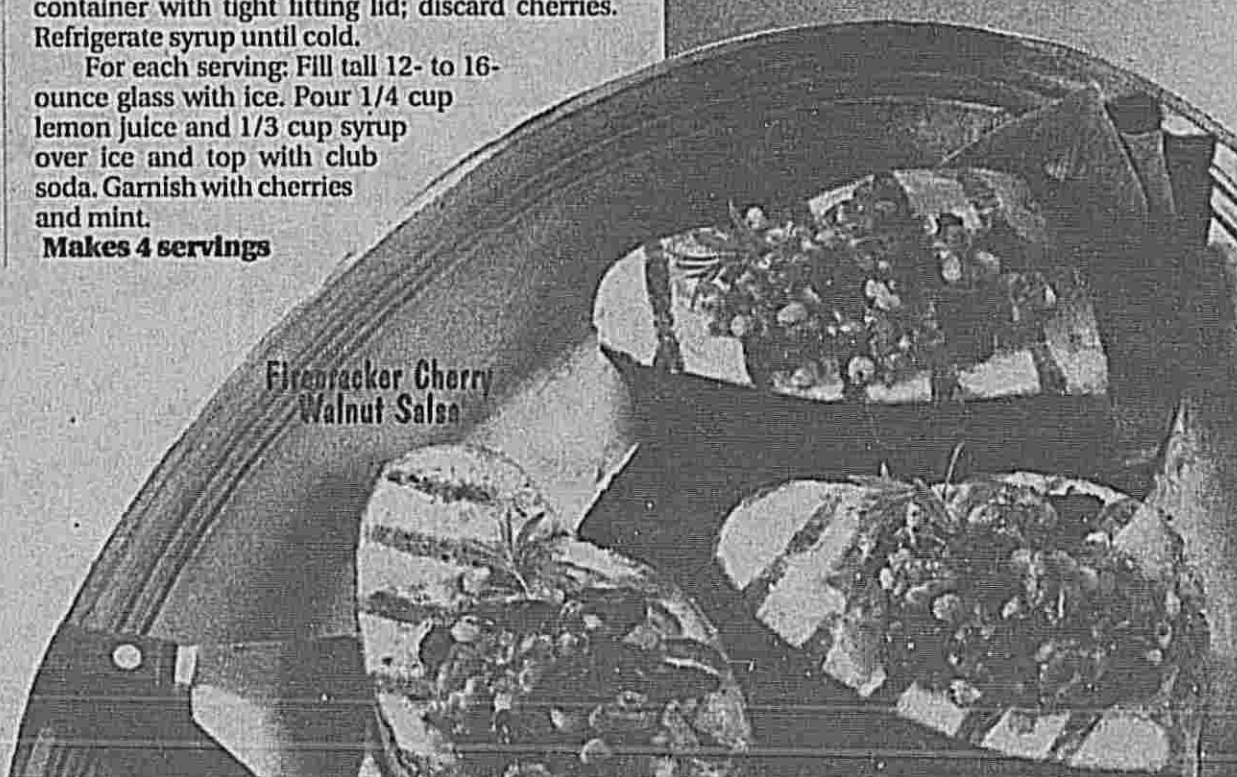

Makes 4 servings

Firecracker Cherry Walnut Salsa

- 2 cups Northwest fresh sweet cherries, pitted and quartered
- 1/3 cup chopped red onion
- 1/3 cup fresh white or yellow corn kernels, or frozen corn kernels, thawed
- 1 or 2 jalapeño peppers, halved, seeded and finely chopped (2 to 4 tablespoons), or
- 1 to 2 tablespoons finely chopped canned jalapeño pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
- 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
- 1 tablespoon grated fresh gingerroot
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup chopped toasted California walnuts

In medium bowl, combine cherries, onion, corn, jalapeño pepper, parsley, balsamic vinegar, gingerroot and salt. Stir and toss together with spoon or fork to mix ingredients evenly. Cover and refrigerate until serving. Before serving, stir in walnuts.

Makes about 3 cups

Experience Civil War Days at Lakewood Forest Preserve

Watch history come to life at the Lake County Forest Preserves' 14th annual Civil War Days on July 9 and 10 at the Lakewood Forest Preserve in Wauconda. Civil War Days is the largest Civil War re-enactment in Illinois. This annual event draws over 600 re-enactors from seven states, and 5,000 visitors from Illinois and surrounding areas. Civil War Days features infantry, cavalry and artillery re-enactors, as well as musicians, sutlers, medical personnel and civilians.

The two-day event begins with Living History Day on Saturday, July 9 from noon to 3 p.m., where visitors of all ages can explore the various camps and learn about life in the 1860s. At the Living History Camp, kids make period crafts and re-enactors teach about Civil War era dance and etiquette. Military and civilian camps feature ongoing live demonstrations. Re-enactors bring to life activities such as pay day, mail call and new recruit call. Throughout the day, surprise skirmishes erupt around the grounds.

The Living History Day concludes with the popular Twilight Camp Tours. From 5:30 to 9 p.m., re-enactors lead visitors on special tours through the camps and then thrill the crowd with a spectacular firing of the cannons at dusk. Reservations are required for Twilight Camp Tours, call 847-968-3321. Space is limited.

On Sunday, July 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., camps remain open as the troops prepare for battle. Visitors can view special cavalry demonstrations and skirmishes, as well as field hospital demonstrations.

The event culminates with the narrated Big Battle at 2 p.m. This one-hour battle represents a typical battle scene, rather than a specific battle, and features artillery, cavalry and infantry re-enactors.

On both days, visitors can view special presentations by Harriet Tubman and Abraham Lincoln, shop at a large Civil War era shopping area, and enjoy period music and entertainment. Visitors can bring a picnic lunch or purchase food at the event.

Lakewood Forest Preserve and the Lake County Discovery Museum are located on Route 176 just west of Fairfield Road near Wauconda.

Tickets for Civil War Days include parking and free admission to the Discovery Museum. Cost is $8 for adults and $4 for youth ages four to 17. Children three and under are free. For more information on Civil War Days call the Discovery Museum at 847-968-3400 or visit the Lake County Forest Preserves website at www.lcpd.org.

Summerfest rocks in Milwaukee

The ultimate live music experience is taking place in Milwaukee for 11 days this summer at Summerfest—The World's Largest Music Festival. Located on 75 acres along the shores of Lake Michigan at Miller Festival Park, Summerfest offers something for every musical taste.

The festival that began as a community event in 1968 has grown to welcome one million visitors from around the world each summer. In addition to continuous music and entertainment in the 10 stage areas and the 23,000-seat Marcus Amphitheater, there are strolling performers roaming the festival park to entertain patrons throughout the day. On any given day there is something for everyone; be it alternative, R&B, country, pop, rock, reggae, Latin, swing, blues or zydeco.

Entering its 38th year, it is no wonder Summerfest has become a tradition for so many. The Marcus Amphitheater, which opened in 1987, has welcomed top national tours to entertain music fans. A sampling of the artists who have taken the stage include the Eagles, Metallica, Alanis Morissette, Fleetwood Mac, The Dead, Luther Vandross, Dave Matthews Band, Sting, Santana, Peter Dinklage, Paul Simon, Bob Dylan, Destiny's Child, Tim McGraw, Prince, Bonnie Raitt, Janet Jackson, Kenny Chesney, Depeche Mode, Pearl Jam, Tina Turner, James Taylor, Smashing Pumpkins, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Aretha Franklin and

From the late 1960s to the present, the festival's entertainment lineups read like a hit list from Billboard magazine. In recent years, the grounds stages have hosted entertainers Little Feat, Joe Walsh, Chaka Khan, The Verve Pipe, Soul Asylum, Cheap Trick, Def Leppard, John Hiatt, Al Green, India.Arie, Steve Winwood, LL Cool J, Third Eye Blind, Cameo, Neville Brothers, The B-52's, Hootie & The Blowfish, Journey, Semisonic, Little Richard, Los Lobos, Chicago, Collective Soul, Jimmie Vaughan, Vertical Horizon, Blues Traveler, James Brown, Everclear, Michelle Branch, G. Love & Special Sauce, Maxi Priest, Lyle Lovett, Gin Blossoms and many more.

Summerfest not only provides musical diversity everywhere you turn, but also a wide assortment of delicious menu items with something for every palate to enjoy. Italian, Thai, Mexican, Greek, Chinese, Cajun, German, or standard American fare—the festival has a dish to satisfy every craving. Add great shopping, family attractions, children's activities, sports demos, comedy, and more, and you have the perfect way to spend a summer day. Summerfest is more than just music; it's an incredible music, food and people experience.

opening this week

Deep Blue: An innovative motion picture experience that takes audiences on an epic, emotion-filled voyage through the last great frontier on earth: the ocean. Diving into the unexplored liquid space that exists just beneath the surface of our planet, the film explores majestic realms where humans, and especially cameras, rarely dare to go. The cinematic experience allows viewers to dart with lightning speed through fierce schools of sharks, ride over stormy waves with massive killer whales, and fight for survival with families of polar bears and seals. The audience plunges into pitch-black chasms that are home to the wild, alien-like creatures so rare they have never been seen before on film. Recounting the amazing stories of wildlife in its untouched state to the majestic orchestral score by acclaimed composer George Fenton, the film results in a visual and musical event that viscerally evokes the wonder, power and drama of the deep blue sea. (G)

Rebound: Old school meets middle school in this feel-good family comedy starring Martin Lawrence ("Big Momma's House") as the ultimate "fish out of water." Lawrence plays a high-strung college basketball coach who must redeem himself following a public meltdown, by leading a junior high school team. (PG) thriller has exceptional special effects and may well become a new horror classic. Along with a cast that includes Simon Baker, John Leguizamo and Dennis Hopper, this "dreadful dead" film is a cut above the normal terror junk we get from Hollywood.

Meanwhile, outside the electric fences of the complex, dining is of a different sort. The living undead are zombies that consume human flesh to survive. Led by a resourceful (formerly human and ultimately surprisingly sympathetic) gas station owner, the ghoulish gastronomes start to think and reason at a primitive level.

The humans are hunkered down with a post 9/11 mentality. Kaufman, their leader and de facto CFO, (played with delicious decadence by Dennis Hopper), heads an organization of controllers, who operate in the outside world, confiscating goods and services for the idle rich who live in the tower. They believe that all the bad guys can simplistically be defined as terrorists. Does any of this sound vaguely familiar?

Riley (Simon Baker, "The Ring Two") heads the controllers, who roll out each night in an armored tank called "Dead Reckoning." It lays a cover of fireworks to distract the "stencches" (the dead) as well-armed motorcycle riders clean out stores for food and merchandise for Kaufman and his cronies, and anything else that will bring money on illegal trade. Riley wants out and plans to head north to Canada where there are no other humans or otherwise. Hotheaded Cholo (John Leguizamo of "Assault On Precinct 13"), on the other hand, wants to get into the inner sanctum of the tower, the elite. He soon finds out that he's not the right sort.

Deadly force by "Dead Reckoning" is threatened by Cholo if he doesn't get a megarams from Kaufman. He'll blow down the doors to the kingdom and let the flesh-eaters in. Riley goes after Cholo, and of course while humans are in the midst of the zombies, there are plenty of killings on both sides (though we haven't quite figured out why bullets seem to kill the already dead).

There are buckets of blood and gore here, really worthy of that R rating. We saw this with a preview audience and we have to concur with them that there are a number of scream-out-loud moments that provide plenty of entertainment. Those that deserve their comeuppance eventually get it in interesting ways. You even come to have a certain respect for the zombies.

In making the film, Romero had four key rules: Stay together, stay alive; Zombies do not run...they always walk; Achieve maximum blood spray; and insert a little sociopolitical satire where possible.

On the latter point, there is plenty of satire. The key theme is that often people don't have the ability to work together even when it's a matter of life and death. While gated communities theoretically keep people out, they also keep those that are to be protected in. And as in any war, there are always surprises and unintended consequence. Make a wave and there is always a back-splash somewhere.

WAR OF THE WORLDS

Unfriendly aliens

By Pam & George Singleton

Based on the book written by H.G. Wells in 1898, "The War of the Worlds" (the first alien-invasion story ever written), the film packs the wallop created by the original work. Lightning bolts strike from the sky, gouging fissures in concrete streets, tumbling large buildings, and creating caverns that unearth long-buried mechanical behemoths, called tripods, that are bent on destroying civilization.

In this post 9/11 envisioning of the story, Ray Ferrier (Tom Cruise) is a recently divorced, blue-collar guy, living in New Jersey, with an interest more toward fast cars than his teenage son Robbie (Justin Chatwin of "Taking Lives") and young daughter (Dakota Fanning of "Hide and Seek.") Obviously, his life is as big a mess as his house, and he and his kids can barely tolerate each other. All that changes when the aliens begin to wreak havoc and kill much of what is in their path. Ray is on the run with his children, trying to stay alive. At one point Ray runs down the street, covered with ash, reminiscent of scenes of 9/11. When it's still unclear who these attackers are, Rachel cries out, "Is it terrorists?"

Fear can make rational people behave in unnatural ways. There is a wonderful, anxiety-ridden sequence in the basement of a farmhouse owned by a grief-stricken survivalist named Ogilvy (Tim Robbins), who saw his family destroyed by the tripods. Ray and Ogilvy struggle for a rifle, soundlessly, while the small alien creatures that pilot the tripods ransack Ogilvy's belongings, and Rachel watches the intruders with an odd mix of curiosity and fear.

The ability for Ray and Rachel to constantly avoid certain death by the aliens who are creating battlefield havoc with the intensity of the Normandy Invasion ("Saving Private Ryan," also by Spielberg) is the only thing that keeps the film from being more realistically chilling. That's the downside. The upside is that it keeps the movie from being too dark and cold for most people.

Unlike Spielberg's "AI: Artificial Intelligence," this film's trailer and advertising is more true to the dark nature of the story. It's rated PG-13 but has the tone of an R. There are no "ET" wanna-be's here, and at no time will you expect the small, slick-skinned creatures, used to pilot the tripods, to give you a hug unless it's to incinerate you or drain your blood.

How the tripods are ultimately destroyed and the world is saved is not particularly clear. Birds appear near the end of the film, as the monsters appear drained of their power, and Morgan Freeman in his closing narration affirms that "God's smallest creatures" brought about the downfall. The subtle social-political message, throughout addresses what we take for granted in matters that we can control and those that we truly cannot control.

This is a film that actually lives up to the hype.

Serenade under the stars series arrives at Gorton

Gorton's famous Cabin Fever Jazz series has a warm-weather cousin. Starting on July 1, from 7 to 9 p.m., Gorton will host three Friday night performances in an intimate cabaret setting on the portico. The concerts will highlight unusual instruments and traditional cultural music styles. Gorton is also offering an optional pre-ordered light evening supper, which includes assorted sandwiches, fruit, cheese, crackers, and dessert. After a long workweek, come join us for a soothing, relaxing evening of music and summer breezes.

The first evening will feature the music of Andy Young, playing Celtic music on dulcimer and Irish flute. Come enjoy the creative, beautiful music as he demonstrates both the challenge of playing traditional Irish melodies and exploring his own abilities with the instruments, accompanied by Al Tauber on the guitar. You may have heard Young when he toured through Gorton previously with the Irish band Donnybrook, come see him again in the relaxing setting of our portico.

Tickets will cost $15 in advance, or $10 for students and children. The optional light supper is $15 per person, and there will be a cash bar that opens with the box office at 6 p.m. Please remember that seating will be limited, and call ahead. Interested persons should register and pay in advance. For further information, or to receive a program booklet, contact us at 847-234-6060, visit our website at www.gortoncenter.org, or stop by the Gorton office at 400 East Illinois Road, Lake Forest between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., weekdays.

Free kids fest puppet show

Families will enjoy a free Kids Fest program on Saturday, July 9 in Village Green Park, 1341 Shermer Road. Jan's Clan Puppets will offer a high-energy musical performance, complete with full-bodied puppets, question and answer demo and many favorite tunes. Fun begins at 10:30 a.m., so pack your blankets, cameras and children and head out to the Village Green for a fun family morning. To learn more, consult your 2005 Spring/Summer

Park Fest presents the White Saddle Band

Playing a blend of country, classic rock and blues, the White Saddle Band will perform at Park Fest on Tuesday, July 12. Music begins promptly at 7:30 p.m., with food service from Chicken Charlie's opening the festivities at 6:30 p.m. Park Fest outdoor summer concerts are held in Village Green Park, 1341 Shermer Road, in the heart of downtown Northbrook. Pack your blankets, chairs and bring your family to the park for a wonderful summer evening. If rain should threaten, the concert will be moved to 33323 Walters Avenue. Please call 847-291-2985 for updates.

Lambs Farm introduces new summer activities

Lambs Farm is pleased to announce an exciting array of activities being added to its summer line-up. Below are the new activities making Lambs Farm the perfect family destination, day or night.

Mini-Golf Under the Stars

Explore Lambs Farm after dark! Night mini-golf is now open Fridays and Saturdays from 5:30 p.m. - 9:30 p.m. The newly remodeled golf course is offering night games and will remain open June, July and August. Cost for mini-golf is $5 per player. In addition, Carousel and Train Rides will also be open during the evening hours. A train ride at dusk is $3 for adults and children ages 2 and up and a ride on the old world carousel is $2 for children ages 2 - 12.

Pony Rides are Back by Popular Demand

Pony Rides have returned to the Lambs Farm after a six year absence.

The rides are available Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m., weather permitting. At $5 each, the pony rides are available now through Aug. 21.

Friday Night Fish Fry

Friday night is the perfect time to visit Lambs Farm as the Country Inn Restaurant hosts our Famous Fish Fry! Come early and enjoy all-you-can-eat cod, walleye or perch along with soup, unlimited salad bar, your choice of potato and hushpuppies. Other dinner items on the menu include Steak, Barbecue Ribs, and Fried Chicken. Stop by the Farmyard for a round of mini-golf after your meal.

Discover the gentle side of sharks in new IMAX film

Take a toothy tour of the deep with nature's ultimate predators in "Sharks presented by Chase Bank," a new film opened June 27 that will run through January 26 at the Humphrey IMAX Dome Theater at the Milwaukee Public Museum.

Come face to face with the ocean's most misunderstood hunters to discover the truth about their precarious spot atop the aquatic food chain. Sharks have hunted the sea for more than 400 million years—since before the time of the dinosaurs—but they are losing the fight against poaching and pollution. Presented by Jean-Michel Cousteau, "Sharks" offers insights that could change the shark's reputation as a ruthless killer and spur action to save endangered species.

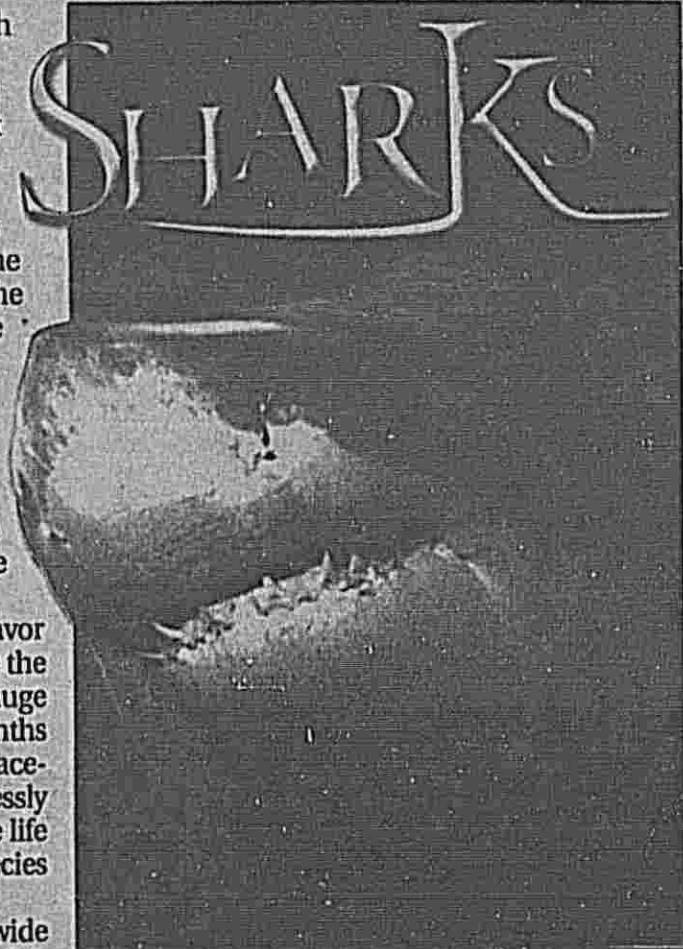

"Sharks" leaves out scenes of killing in favor of a reflective look at shark behavior. While the infamous great white may indulge in huge meals, they fast for as long as two months between feedings. The film captures the graceful giant Pacific manta ray, gliding effortlessly on its 22-foot wingspan; and peers into the life of the whale shark, a school bus-size species that feeds only on tiny plankton.

"Sharks" introduces audiences to the wide diversity of sharks, like the large tooth sawfish with its bizarre head adapted for shallow water hunting; and the electrifying hammerhead, swimming in a haunting school of 100 animals.

Film highlights include:

- Swimming alongside great white, hammerhead and whale sharks in their natural, breathtaking underwater environments.
- Watching a shimmering school of sardines dodging as a single, coordinated mass to confuse prowling sharks.
- Meet amazing ocean life including jellyfish, dolphins, sea lions and sea turtles and find out how they survive among the sharks.

"Sharks" required 500 hours of underwater dives over a nine-month period. The film was shot on location in Guadalupe Island, Socorro Island, Revillagigedos and the Sea of Cortez in Mexico; Malpelo Island in Colombia; the Red Sea; Sodwana Bay in South Africa; Inhambane in Mozambique; and Rangiroa Atoll in French Polynesia.

This film is directed by Jean-Jacques Mantello and is supported and endorsed by the Ocean Futures Society and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP).

Tickets are $8 for adults (16-61), $7 for seniors (62 plus) and $6.50 for children (3-15). Children 2 and under seated on an adult's lap are free. For more information or to make reservations, call 414-319-4629, 888-700-9069 or visit the Museum's Web site, www.mpm.edu.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES

Mar 21/Apr 20

This would be an excellent time to take a trip or even a weekend getaway. Your health should improve, and you'll experience a new vitality.

LIBRA

Sept 23/Oct 23

This should be a calm, easy week with no shocks or surprises to upset things. Try to keep a fair balance between work and play.

TAURUS

Apr 21/May 21

You may be about to start a sudden and deep relationship with a Scorpio of the opposite sex. This could be a happy affair, but, before you fall head-over-heels, know what you're getting into.

SCORPIO

Oct 24/Nov 22

You will find yourself being pulled in many different directions at work. Your persistence is admirable, but you must delegate some of your responsibilities so you don't get completely overworked.

GEMINI

May 22/Jun 21

This should be a very amusing but unproductive week for you. You will find yourself spending more time socializing and less time working. That's the way it should be, you may decide.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov 23/Dec 21

This is going to be one of those weeks where everything seems to keep you waiting. You also will have difficulty doing any clear-cut planning. Don't let your frustrations get to you; life should get easier by week's end.

CANCER

Jun 22/Jul 22

People won't be easy to please, so don't bother trying too hard. Mundane issues will surround you, and you will find yourself getting bored and cranky. Don't take this out on loved ones.

CAPRICORN

Dec 22/Jan 20

Something that happens this week will be very important to you. Be ready for opportunities. This is a good time for buying and/or selling.

LEO

Jul 23/Aug 23

Use your imagination if you are unsure of your next move. A change of scenery could be stimulating as you are likely to find the company of certain friends rather boring.

AQUARIUS

Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't waste your energies on ventures that could prove worthless. You may be feeling a little sad about a friend moving away. Meditation should help you relieve the blues.

VIRGO

Aug 24/Sept 22

You may not be happy with your current position, but with some investigation, you'll find that you really don't have it so bad after all.

PISCES

Feb 19/Mar 20

Spending time with friends is the perfect remedy for feeling down in the dumps. Use diplomacy if involved in arguments of any kind—especially those at work.

Choosing life

Event highlights lives of 5-year cancer survivors

By Marc Jenkins
Managing Editor

What would you do if you were told you were going to die in a month? If you're Margaret Ciancio, or any other of her sisters-in-arms, you do only one thing: Choose life.

The lives and stories of Ciancio, along with nearly 50 fellow cancer survivors, were celebrated at a special event at the Cancer Treatment Centers of America's "Celebrate Life" event in Zion.

From Brooklyn to Seattle, along with eight women from Lake County, survivors of various types of cancer shared their stories, heard words of motivation, prayers and ate some good food at the day-long event.

What makes it particularly special is that virtually all of the women were given only months at the most to live.

Some were even told at one point to get their papers in order because they were soon going to die, after they had been diagnosed with cancer.

But instead of accepting the inevitable, these women chose to fight, and fight they have. The 47 women in attendance represented a total of 83 who reached the milestone of beating their cancer for five years.

In their honor, the Zion Park District intends to plant a tree for each woman throughout the city. Since 1988, CTCA has planted 550 trees in Zion for each patient who has reached the 5-year survivor milestone. According to the American Cancer Society, the 5-year survival rate diagnosed between 1995 and 2000 is 64 percent, up 50 percent from 20 years ago.

When Ciancio, of Waukegan, found out she had breast cancer in 2000, she was in denial, just like her mother when she also succumbed to cancer.

But there came a point when Ciancio just said enough is enough.

Drought drying out county's spirits

By Brian Janosch
Staff Reporter

Wait, watch and hope. That's all that Lake County farmers have been able to do this spring. March and May were the third driest they've ever been this year, and June has followed suit. Municipalities throughout the county are beginning to take precautions now, should Mother Nature continue to scorch the soil.

As farmers inch ever closer to a spoiled season, the western two-thirds of the county is already taking measures to limit water usage to preserve wells. The dryness was nice for a couple trips to the beach, but now farmers and suburbanites alike have had about enough.

Whether crunching through a lawn to get the mail or kicking up the dust of a could-be corn field, checking the Doppler has moved its way into most of Illinois' daily routine.

Everyone wants the rain, but all that can be done is to wait, watch and hope.

Jeffrey Brown, 51, long-time Great Lakes Bulletin editor

Jeffrey P. Brown, 51, well-known to the Great Lakes community as the editor of the Great Lakes Bulletin, died June 24 at Lake Forest Hospital.

Brown had served as editor of the Bulletin since Aug. 18, 1989. During that time, the Bulletin won many awards in the Navy Chief of Information's annual competition. Most recently, in last year's CHINFO Merit Competition, the paper earned first place among newspapers of its format in the world.

Born in Warren, Ohio, Brown had lived in this area and had worked at Great Lakes for many years. He was veteran of the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam era, and served as a Hospital Corpsman and later as personnel man.

He had just recently received his 30-year pin for federal service.

Brown was active in several local charities, including Public Action to Deliver Shelter (PADS), as well as several veteran support organizations.

His is survived by his brother David (Marilyn) Brown of Dayton, Ohio, and was preceded in death by his wife Peggy last year.

A memorial service was held on June 29 in the Forrestal Village

What to do when you fear the cop who pulls you over

By Dan Patrick
Staff Reporter

In the wake of the recent misconduct case involving Illinois State Trooper Jeremy Dozier, police ethics may have come into question. With accusations of an officer ordering two couples to strip to their underwear, some may be afraid of some officers abusing their power.

However, officers from both local and state police departments have some tips should anyone become uncomfortable during traffic stops. Aside from incidents of misconduct, such tips could also be helpful in lessening the potential for police impersonations.

Illinois State Police Spokesman Lt. Lincoln Hampton said officers should only use the stereotypical "license and registration" etiquette with any stop.

"Each department is different, but the basics of a stop involve the officer simply asking for your license, registration and proof of insurance," Hampton said. "The basics of every stop should essentially be the same, regardless of where you are or what officer you're dealing with. Language that seems unofficial could send up some warning bells."

In the event of any suspected misconduct, people can call the police for additional help. Gurnee police department commander Jay Patrick said people can call the police to find out if an officer has called in the stop. In Dozier's case, the officer never called in the stop, which is against police protocol.

"If you feel that the police officer is not acting within the law, it is acceptable to call 911 or the non-emergency number," Patrick said.

If any drivers do feel uncomfortable stopping at a certain area on the road, it is perfectly legal for drivers to stop in safer areas. However,

Pair arrested in hate crime

The Lake County Sheriff's Office has arrested two men following an incident that occurred last week at the Illinois Beach State Park.

Aaron C. Rush, 20, of 1156 Roland Lane in Green Bay, Wis., and Patrick L. Langballe, 29, of 1494 Asbury Avenue in Winnetka were arrested on warrants.

On June 16, two female victims from the Milwaukee area, 17 and 18 years old, reported to the sheriff's office that they had been the victims of a robbery and a battery that occurred at the Illinois State Beach Park. The victims told investigators that they had met Rush and Langballe near a bus stop in Milwaukee and that they had agreed to hang out with them. The four decided to do some camping at the Illinois State Beach Park.

At about 3 p.m., Rush allegedly made a sexual advance towards one of the victims. The victim immediately announced that she was in a lesbian relationship with the other victim and that the two did not like men in a romantic way. Both Langballe and Rush reacted by announcing that they were skinheads of the Nazi Nation and they did not like homosexuals.

Later, a physical altercation began and one of the female victims sustained some minor injuries to the face, arms and legs. Rush then pulled a knife out and threatened to kill one of the victims. As the girls were attempting to get away, Rush and Langballe ripped a backpack off of one of the victims, taking all the items contained in it, investigators said.

Once the victims fled the area, they contacted the Sheriff's Office to file a complaint. Investigators began an intense investigation that led to the identification of both Rush and Langballe.

Rush and Langballe were both charged on the warrant with one count of armed robbery, a Class X felony, one count of aggravated battery, a class 3 felony, three counts of hate crime, a Class 3 felony and one count of unlawful use of a weapon, a misdemeanor.

Rush and Langballe were located in the Gurnee area. Several items of Nazi and white supremacy paraphernalia were found among them and confiscated.

Judge Victoria Martin set both men's bond at $1 million. Their next court date is July 18 at 1:30 p.m. for status of attorney.

Pam and Will Milroy look over some of the items up for auction from the now-closed Sweetness: The Walter Payton Story exhibit at the Lake County Discovery Museum. Proceeds from the auction will go toward funding of future exhibits at the museum.

A sweet goodbye

'It's a wrap' for Payton exhibit, but memories remain

By Steve Peterson

Staff Reporter

They came to claim some important items in Chicago sports history.

J.R. Fraher of Grayslake had visited the "Sweetness, The Walter Payton Story" before, but wished to bid adieu to many Payton and Bears related items one last time at an auction at Lake County Discovery Museum.

"He was the greatest to play football," Fraher said, viewing the items before bidding. "I went to a lot of his games, mostly against Minnesota and Green Bay. The photo of him against the San Francisco 49ers is awesome. He was the best running back in the game," he said, adding that his son also plays football.

Steve Levin of Libertyville cast a bid on just one item, something he had his eyes set on since visiting the exhibit. It was a neon sign, but not just any neon sign. It was specially made for the exhibit's theme. Levin bid $900 and won it.

"I have a bar in the basement in a big room, and that's where it will go. I passed on several other items to bid on it," Levin said.

Another big ticket item was a mounted jersey with "34" on it, that went for $675. More than 50 items received bids.

"It is the way that he (Payton) treated people as a human being," said Jim Bartus of Hawthorn Woods.

Katherine Hamilton-Smith, director of the museum, said this is the first time that an exhibit has been auctioned off by itself to the public. She said at the close of the exhibit, more than 2,000 people attended in the final week. The Bears and the Payton family have both been very generous, she said. Mike McCaskey came by to autograph a book as did Payton's mom.

"People have been very respectful of the exhibit," Smith said. "Walter was such a giving person."

Estimates were the exhibit drew 25,000 visitors.

"He was my boyhood hero," said Ken Wittich, summing up views of many. They came to pay homage to Payton's accomplishments of rushing titles, of 16,725 yards, of 275 yards that day against Minnesota; 10 1,000 yard seasons nine 100-yard consecutive games and 186 consecutive games and of course, the Super Bowl team of 1985.

"He was the greatest," said Dave Starall of Ingleside, on Payton. "My birthday and Walters (July 25, 1954) are a day apart. He was great at running with the ball, and when he did so, he didn't often head to the sidelines."

There was a Pro Bowl photo of Payton, lockers from Soldier Field that drew a $300 bid. Other "lots" were photos with Payton and McMahon, one of Payton's last contract signing in 1987; huge panel boards from Lambeau Field and Soldier Field; a photo of Payton on the drums; various Jackson State University and photos from the younger Payton; one with running the training hill with Dennis Gentry and a 1987 playbook, including fines.

Margaret Ciancio of Waukegan shares a laugh with her family, including daughter Diane Rizzio of Winthrop Harbor, at Celebrate Life 2005, hosted by the Cancer Treatment Centers of America in Zion for former patients who have been free of cancer for five years.

SURVIVORS

"I will deal the best I can," said the 63-year-old Ciancio. "I'm going to let God take over my life. I would always call it the 'stupid illness.' But when I came (to CTCA), I stopped worrying about it."

Although death, obviously, is inevitable, these survivors have chosen to put life before their illness, and they have become an inspiration to their friends, fellow survivors and their families.

Diane Rizzio, Ciancio's daughter, admires the way her mother has dealt with her cancer.

"There's only one time Mom complained," Rizzio said. "After her first treatment, she had mouth sores and a swollen throat and she turned to me and said, 'My throat is so dry, I can't eat.' And I immediately said I would do anything to take care of her. She's so strong."

Ciancio's cancer is now in remission.

Along with Ciancio, Sybillann Williams, of Libertyville, is also coping with breast cancer.

But not only does she have to be strong for herself, she has to be strong at work as well. Williams has been a gynecologic oncologist at CTCA since 1997.

Five years ago, she was giving lectures to other women on the importance of self-examination and realized it had been some time since she last checked herself.

"Lo and behold, the doctors made the diagnosis," Williams said. "I had the choice whether to go somewhere else, but I didn't want to deprive myself of the treatment that I

Celebrating a milestone

Of the 47 women in attendance at Zion's Cancer Treatment Center of America's event celebrating 83 cancer survivors this year who have reached the 5-year mark after being diagnosed with cancer, eight are from Lake County. The area survivors include:

Margaret Ciancio of Waukegan
Evelyn E. Davis of Zion
Carol Glogovsky of Zion
Janice Brown-Grider of Zion
Janet Guhl of Antioch
Joahn Vickery of Spring Grove
Sybillann Williams of Libertyville
Lila Wilson of Waukegan knew I would get at CTCA, so I had my surgery and chemotherapy here."

Williams' cancer is also in remission, and she too does not let her disease control her life. For her, it's the other way around.

"It's not something that rules my life. The whole experience has reaffirmed my faith in human nature. It's given me a new rapport with my patients. They appreciate the fact that I am a survivor too."

DROUGHT

on the rain than Lake County's farmers. Even with urban expansion, more than 40,000 acres of Lake County soil still hangs in the balance waiting for that one big rain.

"A bad year of weather is something we hate to see because (local farmers) are dealing with enough issues in Lake County as it is," said Greg Koeppen, manager of the Lake County Farm Bureau.

The growing season began as promising as ever. Farmers got their crops into the ground in a timely fashion and rain seemed to come exactly when it was needed. But entering the critical June and July period, the big sprinkler in the sky shut off, and now many farms are being pushed as far as they can go.

"We need rain in the next seven to ten days," Koeppen said Tuesday. "If not, we're going to have some farmers close to losing some crops."

At best, should the rain come soon, Koeppen said expectations would still be for an average crop size at best. But it's the helplessness of it all that truly makes a drought disastrous. The damage is brought down slowly, and there's nothing anyone can do about it.

The dry soil hasn't only been a headache around Lake County, as 93 percent of the state's farmland has been short on rainfall, said Douglas Lecomte, Drought Specialist at the National Weather Center. But there is some hope.

"One thing that gives us optimism is a cold front working through the Midwest," Lecomte said. "It should set off some cooler airs and showers ... It doesn't look like it will get any worse."

Dry on the lawn

Homeowners around the county have joined the rally for rain, not out of necessity, but rather simple luxury. Summer is supposed to be about walking barefoot through the yard, feeling the cool grass between your toes. Not crunching upon thousands of brown needles left barren by the scorching sun.

Most of the eastern third of the county gets its water supply from Lake Michigan and, thusly, doesn't really have to worry about running short. The remaining two-thirds gets most of water from designated wells that serve as giant holding stations for water. The drought itself doesn't really effect the water level, it only keeps it from refilling. It's the spike in usage, lawn watering being the primary culprit, that has the county reeling to insure the longevity of what's left in the wells.

"The longer it stays dry, the more serious the problem becomes," said Larry Mackey, Water Well Program Coordinator for the Lake County Health Department. "Normal rain amounts will cause people to use less outdoors. Eventually the wells will recharge, but it's not a quick process."

Most towns have already set restrictions for the summer, allowing people to water their lawns only on specific days or times.

The last time the weather was this harsh on farmers and lawn owners may have been in 1988, and after such a long time many victims of this year's drought are left asking "why?"

In a situation like this, it may be a simple case of dryness begetting dryness, Lecomte said. Much of the moisture that falls from the sky actually comes from the ground. When conditions are damper at the surface, it allows more moisture into the air and eventually, back down to the earth.

This year, however, March, April and May were all unseasonably dry, resulting in a little less moisture around the surface. So when June passes without a major storm system passing through, it's hard for any sort of rain to gather on its own.

That may be a reason why conditions have been poor, but the real worry is whether or not help is on the way. Lecomte said that more than four inches would most likely be needed to push conditions back to normal.

FEAR

an attempt should be made to acknowledge the officer's presence by slowing down or waving at the officer.

"You can signal that you acknowledge the officer by putting your hand outside the window," Hampton said. "As long as you maintain safe speeds, the officer will follow you to any site. That's the first thing you should remember is to maintain speed and don't speed up because if you speed up, then the officer will go into pursuit mode."

Patrick backs up Hampton's sentiments as unmarked cars might appear suspicious to some drivers. His main tip is to stop at well-lit public areas if there is any suspicion about the officer making the stop. If there are no public areas within site, Patrick recommends simply calling the police to confirm the stop.

"If it's not a fully-marked car, the best thing to do is to drive to a public area where there's other people around," Patrick said. "When there's people around, it will probably scare off any impersonators and it should give the driver some piece of mind."

Common sense is the best tool in determining the legitimacy of a traffic stop and both Patrick and Hampton advocate simply using your head during stops. Police officers are trained to act in a professional manner and if there is any suspicion, both said the best option is to call the police for help.

"In any stop, the officer is either going to take action or let you go with a warning, there is no other option," Patrick said. "If the officer is giving you another option, that should set off some warning bells."

Edict to embolden TIF land takers

All in the name of doing the public good, the U.S. Supreme Court took an enormous bite out of individual property rights with the decision to allow local government to seize property in the name of economic development.

Ironically, the landmark decision came as the nation is about to celebrate July 4, our national Independence Day.

The decision, a bow to profit-driven enterprises like real estate development, will reverberate across the land in communities both big and small. The 5-4 decision more certainly will have an extra heavy impact on Illinois, especially suburban areas, where officials have honed an appetite for use of eminent domain power to drive economic development through implementation of the controversial TIF statute.

At the outset, TIF laws were aimed at eliminating blight and returning non-productive real estate to the tax rolls. With the assistance of local municipal councils, sharp-eyed developers have broadened the definition of blight to the point where no piece of property is safe when placed in the TIF bullseye. In Lake County, few of the TIF projects have been enacted for the express purpose of eliminating blight. The TIF law has been abused in unbelievable fashion.

In Illinois, it will be an easy step from TIFing a parcel for "community improvement" to wholesale taking of private property "for the overall good" under new Supreme Court guidelines.

Eminent domain power has been on the books a long time. Court-approved "take" makes sense in the context of building roads, putting up dikes to control flooding or constructing dams for hydro-electric generation. Lining the pockets of wealthy developers was not the intent of eminent domain as conceived by the founding fathers. Nor was it the intent of Illinois lawmakers who created the tax favored and go go features of TIF legislation.

With the new found interpretation of the court, promoting economic development is a traditional and long accepted function of government.

Society keeps whittling away at the constitutional protections of the little guy. When is it going to stop? The saying that a man's home is his castle is an empty promise if seen as not fitting the long range planning schemes of the mayor and council, or the path to profit for a land developer.

VIEWPOINT

Noxious intruder harming lakes

Bill Schroeder
Publisher

An alien weed, known to have arrived in Lake County about 20 years ago, is growing in local lakes at such an alarming rate as to be seen as a health, safety and environmental hazard.

Asian milfoil, reedy and wispy with fern-like leaves, shoots from lake bottoms to 12 to 14 feet tall, its stems bobbing and waving in the water. Heavy growth hinders boating, entraps water fowl and results in mats on the surface that create stagnant water and gather pollutants. "Swimmers itch," an irritation of the skin, has been linked to the plant that is fouling many county lakes.

Mike Adams, lakes management specialist with the Lake County Health Dept., says milfoil infests 85 of the 160 bodies of water the department monitors and measures.

The foreign intruder is the first aquatic plant to start growing in the spring, competing with native plants for sunlight and nutrients. Because of its rapid growth, milfoil "squeezes out" native water vegetation considered desirable and the sign of a "healthy" lake.

Rich Rollins, a water quality professional and botanist by training, says milfoil growth in Lake County lakes has an adverse effect on the eco system providing a habitat for fish and native plants. Rollins believes milfoil was introduced by the aquarium industry. Plants escaped from fish tanks and found a home in the county's recreational lakes. Water fowl and boats help spread the noxious weed.

Public officials and lakefront homeowners are fighting back—to a degree. The basic tools to combat milfoil are chemical treatment, harvesting (cutting) or raking shallow shorelines. Rollins said harvesting is not recommended because a side effect is spreading plants to new areas.

The Village of Wauconda owns and operates a weed harvester to keep Bangs Lake clear of milfoil. A property owners group taking care of Loon Lake located between Antioch and Lake Villa also conducts a harvesting program. Adams likened milfoil harvesting to cutting a lawn. "It looks nice for awhile, but it grows back."

Chemical treatment far and away has proved to be the best way to battle milfoil. Granuals with 2-4-D as an active ingredient have limited effectiveness. Residents of Long Lake have been purchasing granuals at local garden stores and spreading the product by hand or with small spreading devices.

The scourge of milfoil is a chemical known as Sonar that has to be applied by specially trained technicians. It was reported that Sonar is in use at Lake Zurich, Lake Antioch, Lilly Lake, Brandenburg Lake and Island Lake. The product is expensive—$1,500 per gallon. Residents of Lake Antioch, a private lake of 87 acres, pronounced their lake free of milfoil after a treatment.

"A little goes a long way," is the way Rollins described the use of Sonar, a product favored by Aquatic Weeds Technology, a division of Clark Spraying, a company well known to Lake County residents for mosquito abatement and most recently control of west Nile virus.

Use of Sonar is measured by parts per billion. Cost of application for a typical lake used for boating, swimming and fishing could run into thousands of dollars. A application works for two or three years, the length of effectiveness depending on water flowage. Sonar is considered "very selective." Native water plants viewed as desirable are not harmed.

The foreign plant is relentless. Without intervention, the plant just keeps growing. As one observer put it, "You can't stop an avalanche, but with human effort and money milfoil can be stopped. It's up to what people want to do to make their lakes clean and useful."

Sen. Susan Garrett opens surgery prices and success rates to public

Last week, I called Sen. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest), and I'm sure that she thought that I called to ask whether she was going to run for the 10th Congressional District seat. No, I surprised her by asking for information about an important bill that she and Rep. Julie Hamos (D-Evanston) sponsored and Gov. Rod Blagojevich signed into law.

Garrett and Hamos held a joint news conference to hail the signing of the state law to require hospitals and surgical centers to report the costs of outpatient surgeries and the success rates of the operations. This law follows one adopted two years ago that mandated hospitals to publish inpatient hospital prices and performance information.

As one who has written often about "sunshine laws" to require openness in government, it is just as important to require an openness of healthcare procedure results. The data that hospitals and surgical centers must provide under the law will allow patients to make informed decisions on who and where best to render surgical operations on them. After all, many of these surgeries can be a matter of "life and earth," so it is vital that people be informed of the

Moore awaiting ruling on conflict

Libertyville Township Supervisor Betty-Ann Moore is on the governor's short list to fill a vacancy on the Illinois Toll Highway Authority board of directors. The appointment, though, is hanging by a string pending review of the ever changing ethics ordinances covering conflict of interests for persons holding elective office.

Besides extensive experience in township government both as a trustee and supervisor, Moore's governmental experience includes nine years as a member of the Lake County Regional Plan Commission. She served as administrative assistant to the late Democratic State Rep. Grace Mary Stern of Highland Park.

Moore first was appointed supervisor when the then Supervisor Mike Graham resigned for health reasons. Moore was elected to a four-year term last April.

Lake County has not had a representative on the Tollway board since Bob Neal served 10 years ago. At the time Neal was Lake County Republican chairman and a member of the Lake County Board.

Wine will be fine

Biaggi's Ristorante, Deer Park, will be the

Gentes: Has replacement ready to spell expolice chief scene of a wine tasting party and benefit for State Rep. Ed Sullivan Jr. (R-Mundelein). Illinois Republican Chairman Andy McKenna will be guest speaker at the event from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, July 13. Reservations at $50 per person can be made by calling Katria Beeson at 847-949-5579. The wine tasting will be Sullivan's biggest fund raising event of the year with sponsorships ranging up to $2,500. Sullivan represents the 51st District covering Libertyville, Mundelein, Hawthorn Woods, Lake Zurich, Round Lake Park, Kildeer and part of Long Grove.

Eye new chief

Round Lake Mayor Bill Gentes has his eyes on a high-ranking corrections officer in the Lake County Jail as a successor to Police Chief Charlie Joy who was fired two weeks ago.

Getting around

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), her mobility aided by a wheelchair in recent weeks, is getting around more than ever in the sprawling 31st District that takes in the upper third of Lake County. Asked if he knew of anyone considering a challenger of her plans for re-election in 2006, Geo-Karis replied quickly, "Let's try it."

State line strategy

Professionals and civic leaders working on economic development in Lake County are confronted with the "I-94 Solution," a sales and marketing plan designed by LakeView Corp. Park, an expansive commercial development across the Illinois-Wisconsin state line in Kenosha County. To lure Illinois business, Badger State boosters are pushing low real estate taxes, electricity costs 20 per cent lower than ComEd and convenient highway and rail access

Remembering Nancy

To thousands of White Sox fans, Nancy Faust is the faceless keyboard artist who enlivens baseball games with timely tunes. To Lake County Republicans, Nancy is the gracious lady best known for entertaining at the annual fall brunch staged to honor State Sen. Bill Peterson (R-Kildeer). Faust, 58, was honored at a recent game on completion of 35 years at the organ at White Sox games. Faust, a resident of Deerfield, is expected to be at the keyboard again this fall for the annual Peterson brunch, renewing long-standing friendships as she sets a fast melodic pace.

Legal fee watchers

Gurnee Trustee Tom Chamberlain is plunging in where few village officials dare to go—cost of legal fees for municipalities. Chamberlain spoke out when he noticed a 40 per cent increase in fees charged by the municipal prosecutor. During the former Gurnee administration, retainer fees submitted by Atty. Rudy Magna went from $3,500 to $5,000 per month.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Police being 'whipped' over operation costs

Mayor Tom Hyde values retribution over moving forward. Complaints were made about overtime pay, without any additional information. Hyde claims $150,000, Rich Garling says $40,000, while a recent reporter identified $60,000. Which is it, and for which department(s)? Overtime often costs less than adding employees when including training and benefits costs. Without full disclosure, it's impossible for residents to judge for themselves if it's excessive.

Hyde apparently feels the Police Department is the culprit, the only department he cites, but facts that Trustee Martin provides prove Hyde's scrutiny is undeserved. Under Martin's leadership on the Police committee, the union contract succeeded in retaining experienced officers. Police calls are up 14 percent, with revenue up 51 percent over 5 years, and up 24 percent in the last year alone. Hyde moans about a $60,000 comp time Police budget increase, yet the 24 percent revenue increase exceeds $60,000. Hyde views the Police Department as a piggy bank, incredibly shortsighted, and two years, progress is being threatened. The Department's finally on track, with many notable successes this year. My neighborhood, now regularly patrolled, with a greater patrol presence noted throughout the village. Rather than denigrating Martin's management, Hyde should ask Martin what else is needed to continue their success.

Hyde's bloviating about oil changes is just more sideshow. It's sad when a grown man needs mechanics to add oil and count bottles. If your dealer story's true, why drive a police cruiser that's two plus quarts low? Cops check their oil, can't you? It's called a dipstick, Tom. The oil story and Martin's committee removal are retribution. Years ago, Martin ran on Hyde's slate, then unfortunately exhibited independent thought and ran against him. Chief Bero refused to "lose" evidence and non-suit Hyde's ticket for a motor violation. It's unfortunate they decided to represent the citizens instead of Hyde's ego.

Hyde campaigned against nepotism, yet his wife still works for the village. Incredibly, his daughter was just hired too. Worse, they're under his Parks committee chairmanship, one of three chairs he petulantly, childishly hoards. Didn't you promise voters this would stop, Mayor? Will your son be a vendor again this year, too? Hyde's bid for emperor was foiled by voters, and for months he's played Nero while time and opportunity burn. Trustees Martin, Fleissner and Becker were forced to reclaim committee appointment authority just to move forward. Hyde needs to recognize "politics is the art of the possible" and find trustee candidates agreeable to both sides if he wants to lead. They'd need to be politically independent, a serif class with which Hyde is unfamiliar. Trustee Hellman, if not voting straight party, I'd have voted for you. Your education and work experience indicate valuable talents beneficial to all. Granted, you need time settling in, but your intellect would indicate you'd be capable of independent thought. Have a beer with the "opposition" and find out what's really been going on. Unlike Trustee Hellman, the rest of us need to PUT THE BEER DOWN, pay attention, ask questions, and demand answers.

Dangerous droppings

There use to be a bumper sticker that read, "Round Lake, a nice place to visit, a better place to live." This sticker may not be around anymore but one thing that is as plentiful as when I was a child is the wildlife. My wife and I like to take walks on the path around the pond behind the police department off Hook Drive. The wildlife and natural prairie grass creates a relaxing setting. However, in the expanding Round Lake area with its many stores and restaurants, it would be better to keep the niceness separate from the wildlife.

At one time the walking path provided a very pleasant place to walk. Unfortunately, it is so filled with geese feces that you can't take a step without looking down. However, the unsightliness is only half the problem. Studies have shown that goose droppings carry a parasite that can cause a gastrointestinal disease creating a substantial risk to the public.

Due to the number of geese in the area and the fact that an adult goose can produce half a pound of feces a day, it does not take long to turn a beautiful walking path into a disease infested eyesore. That is why if the towns of the Round Lake area desire to continue to be a "nice place" something must be done to rid the walking path from the parasite breeding ground it is today. For the health and well being of the public we need to keep the place where we walk free from disease filled goose droppings. An action plan must be set in place to step up the cleaning efforts required to keep the Round Lake area not only a nice place to visit but a better, healthier place to live.

Time to perform

Monies that could be used to have P.E., music, art and other specials at Gavin School are lost, valuable teachers and aides cut. The promises made by your candidates can only be kept if the lawsuit is dropped and they are able to use the emergency funds provided by the state. CURB is withholding the funds about constitutionality or about control and conflicts of interest? I believe Ron Salee was a subcontractor for Boller and Warren Schuttelfield currently works for Boller. Believe in your board members and let them do what's best for our community.

Why does CURB feel it has the authority to determine the use of state emergency funds for Gavin and who and how Central repairs? You supported Mende, Moulis, Mack and Johnson. They are the elected school board officials. Let them do the job they were elected to do.

Little things 'big'

My family and I spent the better part of the last four days enjoying the events at the Wauconda Fest. This is the first year the kids were old enough to be off on their own, giving my husband and me time to enjoy doing "grown-up things." We spent time visiting with other parents from church, school, cheerleading, softball, listening to music, eating, you get the picture. One of my favorite things is people watching.

Saturday night after Cowboy Crush finished playing for the evening, they were getting ready to do a meet and greet. I saw Mayor Sal Saccamanno jump right in and start cleaning up the tables set for the ladies. These tables were covered with empty cups, cans and other assorted garbage. He could have gotten someone else to clean up the mess but he didn't. He dived right in and started cleaning. Trustees Knight and Knigge joined in along with Steve Nedza. With a nod from Mayor Saccamanno to one of Wauconda's finest, the ladies had security on hand, if needed.

If you had a chance to wander past the Lion's Club Harley, you would have seen Trustee Scott manning the sales table or Trustee Murphy working at the beverage table.

If you're like me, it's the little things people do that impress me the most. Our Village of Wauconda board is truly devoted to making Wauconda a better community and it shows. Congratulations to the Wauconda Park District, its sponsors and the many volunteers on another successful Wauconda Fest.

COMMENTARY

performance, or success rates, of the procedures.

Garrett informed me that Illinois is one of only five states that will require publishing of outpatient surgery data. She said that the average prices of 30 outpatient procedures will be reported under the law. Also, information will be reported on-line about surgical infections, complications, and mortality rates relating to the operations.

Also, Sen. Garrett stressed the importance of including all outpatient surgeries, including those of the "mushrooming" surgical centers. She said that there are 126 licensed surgical centers in Illinois. It is estimated of the near one million outpatient surgeries a year in the state, one-third are performed at surgical centers. She said, "These centers are a relatively new level of healthcare, and one might conclude that they are better because they specialize in it." She added that it could be that the opposite may be true, so that is why it is so important to have up-to-date, valid information with which to compare, and people deserve that.

You know, things "can go wrong" at health-care facilities. It was quite ironic on the day of the Garrett-Hamos press conference, I read about a disclosure where last year at two hospitals in North Carolina 4,000 surgeries were performed with tainted surgical instruments.

The hospitals are run by Duke University. What happened was that elevator workers had mistakenly drained hydraulic fluid into empty soap containers and the instruments were unknowingly washed in the slippery hydraulic fluid, rather than in the proper soapy fluid.

Interestingly, just a few days before the Garrett press conference, there were two separate incidents reported on the same day about alleged surgical "misoperations." In the two unrelated cases, two persons claimed that doctors operated on the wrong sides of their heads.

I point out the above only to underline how important it is for patients and the public to be made aware of performance, or success rates, on surgical operations. It is something that the public has "a right to know."

It is all the more reason why Sen. Susan Garrett and State Rep. Julie Hamos should be commended for their sponsorship of the new law. It is a measure of consumer, or "patient protection."

By the way, before I hung up my conversation with Sen. Garrett, I asked, "Are you running for Congress?" She kept me in the dark and said, "John, you'll know after the 4th of July."

Whatever she decides, she'll do a great job at public service in any role that she serves.

Susan didn't wait for a post-holiday announcement, telling of her decision not to run several days after our conversation and this writing.

Holiday safety check

Members of the Lake County Sheriff's Office and the Grayslake Police Department will be joining efforts to operate a roadside safety check over the Fourth of July weekend in Grayslake.

The operation will begin on Sunday, July 3 at 9 p.m. and conclude on Monday, July 4 at 2 a.m., in the Village of Grayslake.

Last chance to earn transfer credit

It's not too late for college students to earn transfer credits this summer at College of Lake County. Three late-starting transfer courses are still accepting students for the four-week condensed term that begins July 5 and ends July 28. The classes are Introduction to Anthropology (ANT 121), Introduction to Sociology (SOC 121) and United States History from 1876 to the Present (HST 222).

In addition to current CLC students, Lake County residents studying at other colleges and universities who are home for the summer find that taking a CLC summer session class is a quick and affordable way to earn college credits that will transfer back to their home institutions.

Lake Forest Hospital baby alumni party

A celebration that brings generations of families back to Lake Forest Hospital is set for July 6. The 58th Annual Baby Alumni party will take place from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on the Lake Forest Hospital lawn at 660 N. Westmoreland Road in Lake Forest. Some 2,000 parents, grandparents and plenty of children are expected to attend this year's event.

Hosted by the Women's Auxiliary Board of Lake Forest Hospital, Baby Alumni is a goodwill gesture to the patients and the community. All babies born at LFH during the previous four years are invited.

This year's Baby Alumni party will feature visits by Ronald McDonald, Hamburgler and Birdie. There also will be children's rides, face painting and a petting zoo.

If your child is eligible to attend and has not received an invitation, or for more information, contact Lake Forest Hospital's Office of Philanthropy by calling (847) 535-6111 or by email at kmohar@lakeforeshospital.com.

CareCoach comes to GLCUs

Great Lakes Credit Union recently entered into a partnership with Lake Forest Hospital and its mobile health unit "CareCoach" to bring a variety of free preventive health services and educational programs to Lake County residents.

In service since 1999, the Lake Forest Hospital's CareCoach is a fully-equipped mobile health unit, staffed with two full-time licensed healthcare professionals, and offers: blood pressure screenings, blood sugar (glucose) screenings, cholesterol screenings, osteoporosis bone density tests for women over 40 and health behavior/health risk appraisals.

The following is the schedule of the CareCoach visits to the GLCU Service Centers this year: July 8—In Waukegan, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; July 22—In Round Lake Beach, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Aug. 8—In Gurnee, from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.; Aug. 26—In North Chicago, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.; Sept. 23—In Waukegan, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. For details, call Susan Malo at GLCU at 847-578-8869.

Quest program for seniors

For the ninth summer, the College of Lake County will offer Quest, a weeklong education experience designed specifically for adults 50 and older. The July 11-14 program is "That's Hollywood!" Quest is featuring knowledgeable instructors, lively discussions, field trips, camaraderie and tasty meals, held at the Southlake Educational Center in Vernon Hills from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"That's Hollywood!" will be held July 11-14. The session will feature lectures on "Primitive Cinema: Silent Cinema and Film Aesthetics," "Reel to Reel: Innovations in Film," "From the Nickelodeon to the Motion Picture Palace: Film Exhibition and Cinema," "Waukegan's Connection: Edward Amet," "Stars, Celebrities and Cinema," "Sex, Sin, Censors and Smokescreens: The Hollywood Production Code" and "If I Stop Laughing, I'll Cry: Film Comedy." Speakers include Bob Coscarelli, Patrick Gonder and John Kupetz, instructors from the College of Lake County, and Diana Dretske, Lake County historian for the Lake County Discovery Museum. The cost is $179. For more information call 847-543-6507.

Info for South Africa trip

Explore the art, culture and history of post-Apartheid South Africa this winter with a College of Lake County field study trip. Art and humanities instructor Bob Lossmann and English/humanities instructor Nicholas Schevera will lead a two-week trip to South Africa, Dec. 26 to Jan. 8, 2006. Informational meetings will be 6 p.m. on July 13 in room D106 and at 7 p.m. on Sept. 13 in room D105 on the Grayslake Campus.

The field study trip will explore the culture, history and changes of South Africa since the abolition of Apartheid in 1991. South Africa is a large country of huge mountains, beautiful bays, historic settlements and nature preserves. Although South Africa is on the forefront of development and change in Africa, many native cultures will be explored.

Students can earn three credit hours for going on the field study trip. The estimated cost is $3,600 plus CLC tuition and fees, airport taxes and insurance. The trip can be paid for in three installments, beginning Sept. 20.

For more information, contact Bob Lossmann at 847-543-2436 or Nicholas Schevera at 847-543-2959.

New branch court to open next week

By Nicholas Alajakis

Staff Reporter

Starting next week, all traffic violators in central Lake County will have a new place to pay or contest their citations.

After years in Grayslake, Lake County's North Branch Court will be moving into a newer, larger building in Round Lake Beach.

The move will do a lot for convenience, said May Kay Lunt, Chief Deputy in the Circuit Clerks Office.

The new building, 1792 Nicole Lane, will not only have easier access than the Grayslake court, it will also be easier to find. Grayslake's court was in a strip mall on the northeast corner of Routes 45 and 120. People often complained that they could not find it, Lunt said. The new building, which is free standing, will alleviate those problems.

County officials are planning a grand opening for the new facility at 10 a.m. on July 1. The public is welcomed to the opening. The court will not officially replace Grayslake until July 5, however.

Lunt said the staff would also benefit by the move to the larger, 9,000-square-foot facility, which was designed around the courts usage. The building will include has one courtroom and an office. There will also be classrooms for driver improvement classes.

Documents and equipment are being transferred to the new branch court between July 1 and July 5.

Senior County Board member Audrey Nixon (D-North Chicago) said she too thinks the move will be a positive one for the community.

Nixon, the chair of the board's law and judicial committee said she thinks the centrally located office will be a lot easier to access.

The north branch court will solely handle minor traffic violation issued by communities and agencies in northern Lake County. Agencies whose citations will go to the court include: Antioch, Beach Park, College of Lake County, Lake County Forest Preserve, Fox Lake, Fox Waterway Agency, Grayslake, Hainesville, Illinois Commerce Commission, Lakemoor, Lake Villa, Lake County Sheriff, Lake County Sheriff Water Patrol, Lindenhurst, Mettawa, Rabies Control, Round Lake, Round Lake Area Park Dist., Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Heights, Round Lake Park and the VA Hospital.

Last year the North Branch Court saw 47,000 cases, Lunt said.

Other branch traffic courts are located at Lakehurst in Waukegan and in Mundelein.

Police chief named Nicasa's chief operating officer

Bruce Johnson, police chief for the villages of Round Lake Park and Hainesville for 10 years, has been named chief operating officer of Nicasa, the Lake County-based behavioral health agency that focuses on criminal justice services and community health promotion.

Johnson's more than 20 years in law enforcement also included service with the Schaumburg and Morton Grove police departments. He will officially retire as the Round Lake Park/Hainesville police chief on Nov. 8.

Johnson will succeed John Merwin, Nicasa's longtime associate director, who is retiring on Aug. 10.

Announcement of Johnson's new position at Nicasa and his retirement from law enforcement were announced in a joint news release by Round Lake Park Mayor Ila Bauer and Nicasa Executive Director Judy Fried.

"The chief is very creative and resourceful," Bauer said. "He's a great leader, a great friend — my second son. I will miss him as police chief, but recognize that he has a wonderful new opportunity to benefit the entire region through his work at Nicasa. I'm happy to see him stay for the greater community's sake."

Hainesville Mayor Ted Mueller praised Chief Johnson for his relationship with the youth and Hispanics of our communities. "It is a model to be followed by other police departments. He has always been responsive to resident concerns while being both tough and compassionate. Bruce will be missed by the village and by me personally and we are happy that he isn't going too far away," he said.

"We are thrilled to have Bruce join Nicasa in a key leadership role," Fried said. "His experience in law enforcement and his leadership in the community will benefit the agency and our clients considerably."

"Lake County State's Attorney Michael Waller, who is president of Nicasa's board, praised Johnson as well.

"He's an outstanding law enforcement professional who's done an excellent job as chief of police for Round Lake Park and Hainesville and as a president of the Lake County Chiefs of Police Association," Waller said. "Bruce also believes strongly in effective substance abuse treatment and prevention programs. Nicasa is very fortunate to have a person of Bruce's experience and talents come on board."

While Johnson is looking forward to his new position, he said he will miss working daily with people he's grown to love and respect during the past 10 years.

"We've had very much a family atmosphere," Johnson said. "I'll miss the officers, the close working relationships I had with the mayor, the community, the teachers, the principals and others I've worked with. I'll still be working with them, but in a different capacity."

Johnson and his wife, Dee, have three children, sons Joseph, 13, and John, 11, and daughter Jacey, 4.

Nicasa, one of the largest substance abuse prevention and treatment agencies in Illinois, was founded in 1966 and is headquartered in Round Lake. The agency operates services to the criminal justice system, programs that promote healthy lifestyles and treatment services for problem gamblers. In addition to Round Lake, program facilities are in Waukegan and Buffalo Grove. Nicasa operates the Women's Services Center in North Chicago and Bridge House, a Waukegan-based residential facility for men and women recovering from alcoholism and other drug addictions.

ALOOKBACK

Lake County history from the Lakeland Archives

Lakeland Archives

Andrew Kelley, 3, sits dwarfed by his teddy bear while attending a June 1995 "Teddy Bear Picnic" at Ela Area Library. Children heard bear stories, sang bear songs and ate sandwiches and cookies in the shape of bears.

were scaring shoppers and pedestrians in downtown Libertyville. Police in the village said that enforcement is often a problem, because there are more important matters.

Mundelein officials were excited to see more affordable housing coming to the village. A total of 206 townhouses were approved to be built next to the high school. The average home was to cost $120,000.

25 YEARS AGO • 1980

A Wonder Lake man was arrested in connection with the sexual assault of a Lake Villa woman. The man reportedly gained access to the woman's home by posing as a telephone repairman. Police caught the man by going to local businesses with an artist's rendition of what the man may look like.

St. Therese Hospital of Waukegan, opened its emergency satellite facility in Lake Villa.

15 YEARS AGO • 1990

A backhoe hitting a power line on Gages Lake Road caused a power outage at the College of Lake County. As a precautionary measure, the school had to be evacuated.

Libertyville trustees were concerned that skateboarders at Cook Memorial Park

10 YEARS AGO • 1995

A Round Lake pilot was killed in a plane crash in McHenry County. Witnesses say the plane had problems taking off, and was seen jack-knife.

A Libertyville High School student was killed as he left a bus stop on Butterfield Road in Mundelein. The teen died after he was struck by a car whose driver was unable to stop in time. There were no immediate charges.

A Gurnee police officer was involved in a two-car accident on Gages Lake Road.

The village of Antioch raised developer impact fees. Antioch schools were set to receive the majority of additional funds.

Ann A. Velek

Age 95 years young, born June 4, 1910, at rest with Jesus, June 19, 2005. Beloved wife of George for 69 years, loving and devoted mother of George Jr. (Linda) Velek, Linda (Jim) Schawel; dear grandmother of Doug Velek; aunt of nieces and nephews and friend to everyone.

Ann was a resident of Berwyn for 20 years and owner of the Amber Barrel. From 1962-1966, Ann and George lived in Harwood Heights, and owned another restaurant called the Heights Restaurant. Except for the last five years, Ann and George lived out their lives in Fox Lake, where they owned their last restaurant called "Veleks." Not only did Ann own various restaurants, she was also the chef at all of them. She never took a cooking class but what a wonderful cook she was. When Ann and George retired, they moved to Leisure Village in Fox Lake, where she took up golf, bowling, ceramics. Like her cooking skills, she never took a golf or bowling lesson but she was great at both of the sports. Whatever she did she was good at it.

Since June, 2000, Ann and George have lived at Independence Village in Naperville. Our family would like to thank the CNS nurses who took wonderful care of Ann for 4 1/2 years; Nancy, Elizabeth, Omega, Para, Linda, and Tammy. We also want to thank Ann's caregiver, Karen Segrado, for taking wonderful care of her for the last 5 1/2 months. What would we have done without you. Thanks to Annie and Jeanette for being such a good friend to Ann and a wonderful support group. Thanks to the great staff at Independence Village who took care of Ann's needs: Rosemary who is always there with a smile, Ron and his maintenance team, Diane and Kathy who always made sure there were plenty of activities (mom's favorite was Happy Hour on Fridays), all the people who work in the restaurant, Ollia and the housekeeping staff; thanks to Judy who made mom even more beautiful at the beauty salon every week. Thanks to all her friends at Independence Village who were always concerned about mom. Thanks to CNS Hospice and Home Care Physicians for caring for mom through this difficult time. Ann was a generous, kind, loving person and anyone that knew her loved her. She was a devoted wife and the best mom anyone could have. We will all miss her very much.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations can be made to: Home Care Physicians, 1800 N. Main St., 2nd floor, Wheaton, IL 60187 (630-611-1960) or Alzheimers Association, 4709 Golf Rd. (Suite 1015), Skokie, IL 60076 (847-933-2413), www.alz.org or any animal shelter of your choice.

Fast and easy décor for kids' spaces

Wallpaper is making a big comeback among do-it-yourselfers and decorators alike. New Easy 2™ and Surestrip™ technologies make kids' wallpapers and borders easier than ever to install, and they remove in minutes to change the look as children grow and tastes change.

Featuring everything from woodland fairies and Western murals to camouflage and surfer themes, the new Carey Lind Kids III collection appeals to boys and girls ages 3 to 14. The new paste-the-wall application is easier, cleaner and faster. With the Girl Power collection, the pre-pasted paper is dipped in water and applied immediately to walls. There's no waiting time, expansion or contraction. Best yet, it removes like a banana peel without damaging the walls.

For more information, visit wallpaper stores and home improvement centers, call toll free 1-866-967-5925 or visit www.YorkWall.com.

Bold and bright designs from the new Girl Power collection by York are the decorating trend among today's teens and 'tweens.

Attorneys Salvi, Schostok & Pritchard Illinois Super Lawyers 2005

Patrick A. Salvi, Michael P. Schostok and David J. Pritchard were recently featured in the May 2005 issues of Chicago magazine and Illinois Super Lawyer magazine for being among the best lawyers in the state.

Salvi, Schostok & Pritchard has been serving Lake County for more than 23 years. Together they have settled more than 100 cases involving $1 million or higher. Last year alone, such cases totaled $88 million.

Pat, Mike and David have not only been dedicated to their clients, but they have also committed their time and talent to their profession. Each attorney is a published legal author, a highly sought after speaker, and has served in leadership positions in both bar and professional organizations. Pat sums it up best in saying, "It's not just our practice - it's our passion!"

Salvi, Schostok & Pritchard P.C. concentrates in the area of personal injury, but they are particularly regarded for their expertise in medical malpractice litigation.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Happy 4th everyone! I am going to write about something today that I'm sure will anger some people, but I think it is important to write about. I remember the 4th of July when I was growing up. We used to go to Meadowhill park and watch the bike races and the fireworks. The whole family would get together and go and we had a blast. Back in those days (I sound ancient) it wasn't easy for people like me to get our hands on any giant fireworks to use for ourselves in our own yards. People who were pyrotechnics experts would put on the public fireworks show and that's where everyone went. Of course, people could still get lady fingers and sparklers, etc. You would see people hand those sparklers to even little kids because they were supposed to be so safe.

I can feel the firework enthusiast's hackles rising as I write, but facts are facts. Being the daughter of a Pediatrician, I get to hear all the stories about the 6 year old kid who had his fingers blown off because his Dad thought it would be fun for him to throw the firecracker himself. He won't get those fingers back. Or the 9 year old girl who had her face burned to a crisp by those not so safe sparklers. She will go through torture when she gets into Jr. High and High School when the kids incessantly pick on her because of her injuries. Not to mention the fact that those injuries will be with her the rest of her life. Or the little boy who is blind now because of those same sparklers. Or the Dad who blew his whole hand off because he waited just a little too long to let go. He will never hold his kids the same way again. These are just a small amount of real stories out of many more that I have heard. I am not making them up.

Now things are a lot different. In any town suburban USA, you can be treated to a professional firework show right in your own yard even if you aren't putting it on yourself and with none of the safeguards that are in place at the professional shows. The next day, you have to be extra careful and extra worried because your kid or dog could go in the backyard and find a rocket casing to chew on or play with. Lots of fun! Even more fun, you wonder what is sitting on your roof ready to fall!

I'm certain that firework enthusiasts will not change their plans because of my writing this, but I am hoping that there may be some who read this and think that maybe it might be better to do the legal thing and the smart parenting thing and just go to the professional show and enjoy the real fireworks instead of flirting with disaster for themselves and their kids by doing these kinds of activities. Happy and safe 4th to everyone!

Lake Forest Hospital hosts 58th annual Baby Alumni Party July 6

A celebration that brings generations of families back to Lake Forest Hospital (LFH) is Wednesday, July 6. The 58th Annual Baby Alumni party will take place from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on the Lake Forest Hospital lawn (between the hospital and Westmoreland Nursing Center), 660 N. Westmoreland Road in Lake Forest. Some 2,000 parents, grandparents and plenty of children are expected to attend this year's event.

Hosted by the Women's Auxiliary Board of Lake Forest Hospital, Baby Alumni is a goodwill gesture to the patients and the community. All babies born at LFH during the previous four years are invited. Guests come from all over the northern Chicagoland area and southern Wisconsin, reflecting the broad service area and excellent reputation of the hospital's maternity department.

"The event is a perennial favorite of moms, dads and grandparents as well as babies," says

Sue Skinner, Lake Forest Hospital Philanthropy Department.

This year's Baby Alumni party will feature visits by Ronald McDonald, Hamburger and Birdie.

There also will be children's rides, face painting and a petting zoo. Volunteers from the Women's Board, Lake Forest Hospital and teens from the Committee Representing Our Young Adults (CROYA) will be on hand to offer assistance. The generous support of the First Midwest Bank of Lake Forest assures our little guests a good time.

Baby Alumni will be held rain or shine, according to Lanie Camino chair, and Becky Kluchka, co-chair. If your child is eligible to attend and has not received an invitation, or for more information, contact Lake Forest Hospital's Office of Philanthropy by calling (847) 535-6111 or by email at kmohar@lakefor-esthospital.com.

Four-legged free flight

From stadium to the cross-country course, equestrians agree jumping is the mane event

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

Twist of Fate gathers his haunches underneath him.

Muscles ripple in his flank as he reaches forward with his hind end and shortens his stride with his front legs. It's his attempt to shift his weight further back as he prepares to hurdle himself over a fence.

Clinging to his back is Kia Miller, who shifts her weight back to match her gelding's. With steady hands planted firmly on his withers, Miller rocks forward onto Twist of Fate—a.k.a. Lefty's—neck, matching his weight shift as he takes flight.

The small Antioch teen is nothing but an afterthought to the large, registered paint, but both horse and rider are perfectly in tune with one another.

"He feels like he has springs on his feet," Miller said when asked to explain the feeling of riding a 1,000 pound animal over a jump. "He's not hard to get over the jumps at all, he's a lot of fun. He likes going fast, he's a great turner and he likes to jump so that's good.

"And I love it, too."

Whether under the close scrutiny of a stadium judge or on a cross country course in a race against time, equestrians from throughout northern Illinois have discovered that jumping, horse style, is the mane event.

Miller, 16, first stepped into the stirrups 10 years ago. She tried different styles of riding but found her love in the rush of four-legged flight.

"I've always wanted to jump and I thought I wanted to do cross country. Then I started doing the show jumping and the hunter jumpers and I loved it," Miller explained.

So, Miller focused her equine career around stadium jumping, a United States Equestrian Federation-recognized event and Olympic sport since 1912. In the event, riders and horses compete against time and scores to clear a predetermined series of obstacles.

Championship horses must be able to hurdle over fences, low walls and other jumps such as water-filled ditches without erring, or knocking into the barrier. They also lose points for a refusal, which occurs when the horse halts instead of jumping.

Miller said that wasn't a concern for her natural jumper. That's because, like his rider, Lefty found himself when being trained over jumps.

"The barn didn't think he was going to be much of anything and they decided to make him a jumper because he really couldn't do anything else," Miller said with a laugh. "He's come a long ways, you wouldn't even think he was the same horse."

So far, in fact, that the tenacious team has claimed top honors at shows this year, placing in the ribbons and earning points in fields of 20 or more competitors. It's a trend Miller hoped would continue in the remaining years of her show career, as she planned to earn enough points to qualify for national-level competition next year.

Some of the most versatile equine athletes show their stuff in another popular trend in the world of horse competition. Three-day events—the equivalent of an equine triathlon, not a 72-hour shop-a-thon—pit teams of one horse, one rider against three different but equally demanding events.

"It takes amazing training techniques. ... That's the beautiful thing about combined training," said Jan Nestrud, the organizer of the Fox River Valley Horse Trials. "Each horse and rider has to do the dressage test, the endurance phase, which is the cross country, and the show jumping."

"The dressage is to show the suppleness and the heart of the event is the cross-country or the endurance. The show jumping is to show that the horse is still sound. It really takes an all-around athletic horse to do all three things."

Some of the best trained and conditioned athletes of the Midwest descended on Barrington Hills and the Barrington Countryside Park District last weekend to test their mettle and athletic prowess against the grueling event. The hot weather and humid conditions that marked the weekend didn't keep horses and riders alike from strutting their stuff.

Proudly perched upon a powerful Irish-bred thoroughbred/draft horse-cross named Gaelic was James Kane, a feisty retiree and long-time horse fanatic. The former physician from Barrington began riding four decades ago when his children, then youngsters, began to show an aptitude for equestrian sports.

Kia Miller and her horse, Twist of Fate, easily clear a 3-foot-6 rail jump at a 2004 horse show in Michigan.

"Eventing is a fascinating type of activity because it involves three different modalities of horsemanship," Kane said. "If I told you I was going to be in an activity where I ran, swam and rode my bicycle on a weekend, you would call that a triathlon."

"That's exactly what eventing is. It's a triathlon with the horse."

Instead of running, swimming and bicycling, however, these triathletes danced, ran cross-country and jumped. The intense, multi-faceted competition held an allure for Kane because it challenged both members of a horse/rider team to be the best they could.

"You really develop a partnership with your horse," he said. "When you come out to that course you have to be able to say 'Gaelic, we're going pal.' He just has to trust you like you have to trust him. It truly challenges the horse to be what he's worth."

Exhibitors came to the trials from as far away as Iowa and Minnesota. Local competitors from Wadsworth, Waukegan and Lake Forest proudly and successfully represented Lake County.

Some of Lake County's finest horse/rider teams competed June 24 through June 26 in the Fox River Valley Horse Trials, a three day event. The following exceptional equestriennes and their equally talented mounts finished in the ribbons after successfully completing all three legs of the event.

Warren, Antioch/Lakes programs help develop passion for tennis

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

Long thought of as a game played at country clubs by the North Shore elite, tennis in Lake County is quickly developing into a sport that not only anyone can enjoy, but can prosper in, given just a little natural ability and a lot of commitment.

Take Gurnee, for example. Never considered a rich community, it has more than a dozen courts between the two Warren High campuses. And the village's commitment to the sport has paid off, as WTHS has become one of the state's elite programs in the last year, including a sixth place showing by the boys' team at the state tournament in May.

Northern Lake County appears on the way up in the tennis community as well. Just two years ago, Antioch had just a few courts, most of which were barely playable.

But with the new facilities at Lakes High in Lake Villa, the area has a dozen brand new courts that are open to the public. Antioch also hopes to have its new courts at the high school completed by the start of the girls' season in August.

Yes, area tennis interest is certainly on the rise. And a pair of camps at Warren and Lakes, held throughout June, hope to expand that interest even further.

"We want to get kids interested in playing tennis at Lakes and at Antioch," said camp coordinator and Antioch varsity tennis coach Carolyn Stanley. "Interest in tennis is growing and with places like this and at Warren, it will help it even more."

In just its second year, the Antioch/Lakes camp has seen its participation increase from 99 kids to 115, ranging from ages 6 to 18. In addition, 32 high school kids are participating, as opposed to just 15 last year. Helping Stanley at the camps are current and former ACHS players Ryan Reimer, Charlie and Robbie Scupham, Lindsay Clutter, Brett McKenzie, Andrea Pinc, Christina Petersen and Natalie Stewart.

"The camps do so much for community relations," Stanley said. "It's good for the kids to have the players to look up to. It also gives the instructors a chance to give back to local kids."

Former ACHS star Ryan Reimer agrees.

"It's a great job, playing tennis with a bunch of little kids," said Reimer, a sophomore at Illinois Wesleyan University. "Watching them get better is great."

It also gives the instructors a chance to keep playing the game they love, which is the case for recent graduate Natalie Stewart, who won the Miss Antioch pageant earlier this month.

"I love tennis and I had so much fun getting to know all the little kids last summer. They're so cute," said Stewart, who hopes to play at the College of Lake County in the fall. "Plus I've been so busy lately with Miss Antioch, it gives me a chance to have fun and do something I like to do."

As for the kids, they're just out to have fun and improve their games.

"It's been a lot of fun and I've gotten better," said 11-year-old Hannah Whittman of Wadsworth. "The instructors have all been really nice."

While camp participation has increased this year, Stanley hopes for even more kids at future camps.

"We want the numbers to keep growing, especially when we develop a consistency of when it is every year," Stanley said. "We had to have it in July last year because the courts weren't done yet. Warren gets a lot of walk-in traffic because kids know when the camp starts. We want that. We want the word-of-mouth to increase."

Indeed, young tennis enthusiasts in the Gurnee area know exactly when to show up at Warren High. They should, considering that the school has had a camp in one form or another for the last 35 years, dating back to former coach Pete Campbell.

"It's how we build up the program," said camp coordinator and varsity girls' coach Vince DeSecki. "The kids are really having fun, especially within the beginner and intermediate groups. The kids are also willing to work and work hard."

Under instruction from DeSecki, boys' varsity coach Greg Cohen and current and former WTHS players Mark Nelson, Jeff Nevolo, Karol and Karina Kocemba, Cory

Mlinac, Mike Park and Dan Gradner, more than 180 kids from Gurnee signed up for the camp.

"The instructors are all great tennis players, but they're also great kids," Cohen said. "We have five former boys' MVPs and a girls MVP. And they're also very bright. Karol Kocemba is going to NYU; Park is going to Cornell. Karina Kocemba is No. 4 in her class. Dan Gradner has a 4.3 GPA."

"We tell the little kids about their GPA. We want to let them know that student and athlete can go together."

Corsair criticism may pay dividends during the season

By Dan Patrick

Sports Reporter

Criticism is always hard to take. It forces people to take a hard look at themselves and evaluate what is right and what is wrong. Sometimes, it's downright insulting, but for the Carmel Corsairs this summer, it seems as if it's the players that are doing all the criticizing.

Carmel veteran Robert Broderick had a pretty scathing appraisal of his team's situation after a tough 20-point loss against the Waukegan Bulldogs in the College of Lake County league Tuesday.

"We started out pretty well and then things have slowed down, we've just been goofing off in practice," Broderick said. "The first day of games was just a lot better than last season and things were looking hopeful from then, but right now we've just really slowed down intensity-wise."

Broderick blames his team's problems on some of his teammates being over-extended within the sports scene. With numerous players doling out their time between multiple sports teams over the course of the summer, Broderick feels that his team needs to give some more dedication to the basketball court.

"I think it's because people are divided between football and basketball, but we've just got to get fired up for these last few games," Broderick said. "We've got to play better as a team and look for that extra pass just like the University of Illinois did, but I haven't seen it so far."

Jon Baffico
Carmel basketball coach

While Broderick has not been pleased with his team's intensity over the course of summer play, Carmel coach Jon Baffico has actually seen some good things from his team. Coach Baffico said that many of his players have been working hard to improve from last season's 1-win run.

"In general, we've had a pretty good summer," Baffico said. "We've played pretty well, we shot the ball and in games we've gotten everybody together. We've had a productive summer, certainly a lot more productive at this point than we were last summer."

One thing Baffico does acknowledge is a recent drop-off in wins during the last weekend at team camps and within the CLC league. But, Baffico feels that his team's progress may have been slowed by a simple lack of goals over the course of the summer. Without a real record to look at, and without the added motivation of a conference or regional title, the intensity level simply can't be what it usually is during the season.

"This last weekend, we didn't play particularly well, (Tuesday) we didn't play well, but in general up to this last weekend we've played pretty well this summer," Baffico said. "It's the summer and it's practice, there's no trophies in the summer and all you're trying to do is get some guys some looks and make a fair evaluation about your team and that's really what the summer's about."

Overall, coach Baffico simply expects improvement from his team and hard work during the offseason is usually the golden ticket to wins during the regular season. With leadership from some of his veterans, coach Baffico said his Corsairs should turn some heads in the 2005-06 campaign.

"I think once we're at full strength, I think we're going to be a much better team than we were last year," Baffico said. "I think Broderick's had a good offseason, Matt (Eckhart) had a good offseason; I think those two kids have worked pretty hard to get better. Those two kids stand out for me."

Regardless of any momentary lags in the team's intensity, all coach Baffico's attention is simply fixated upon the eventual goal: to make a splash in the regular season some five months away.

"If we continue to work hard," he said, "we're going to be better come November, and that's a good thing."

Waukegan hopes to build momentum heading into next season

By Rob Backus

Sports Editor

As much as people may love to hear the distinctive ping of an aluminum bat launching a ball into the stratosphere, it doesn't compare to the crack a wood bat makes when a player really connects at the plate.

Most high school players would disagree, as an aluminum bat gives them a much greater margin for error at the plate. Coaches, however, embrace any opportunity for their players to use wood bats.

One such opportunity came in Waukegan last weekend with its annual eight-team Bob O'Farrell Wood Bat Classic, held at Bowen Park and Weiss Field.

"I like wood bat tournaments," Waukegan coach Craig DeLost said. "We use wood bats a lot in the summer to teach players how to hit. It teaches you better command of the strike zone and it helps you finish off your swing. It's a useful learning tool."

While his team has done an admirable job of learning thus far, DeLost also knows the Bulldogs have a long way to go heading into next season.

Though Waukegan failed to win a single game in the tournament, it did improve throughout, including a 7-7, nine-inning tie against state power Niles Notre Dame in its final game.

"We've only been playing about two weeks, but I think we're in good shape," DeLost said. "We're learning on the job. I think we'll know where we are by mid-July."

If there's one word DeLost wishes would be erased from the dictionary, it's "consistency." That, or a lack thereof in Waukegan's case, dogged the team all spring as it limped through to an 11-21 overall record and 3-12 mark in the Central Suburban League.

And that dreaded "C-word" had continued to plague the Bulldogs in the early going this summer.

"It all comes back to consistency," DeLost said. "We play good baseball at times, and other times it seems like we can't do anything right. It seems like we're always taking two steps forward then one step back."

If there's one thing that encourages DeLost, it's the fact that his players seem genuinely committed to both the program and to improving their play on the field.

"The team is full of players who are hard workers and who enjoy the game, and that's all you can ask for as a coach," DeLost said. "Hopefully, the guys are committed to working hard on their games all year, not just in the summer."

Graduation was extremely tough on Waukegan, as several starters, including All-CSL selection Joe Labus and the talented trio of Phil Sims, Jordan French and Eric Krueger, will not be back next season.

However, the team also has a lot of talent back, including All-CSL pick Ryan MacManaman, pitcher Marshall Hogan, outfielder Sean Beausoleil and middle infielders Armando Cruz and Eric Jaburek.

"We have some quality players back," DeLost said. "They're guys who like the game and who want to become better players. We just want some of them to step up and become leaders on this team."

The dozen or so returning players will look to mesh with a sophomore team that's a "bit rough around the edges," according to DeLost.

"The sophomores struggled a bit during their season, but we had Cruz on the varsity team and they started five freshmen," DeLost said. "It's hard to tell what we have. We still have to form our identity, which hopefully we can do by the end of the summer season."

That's precisely the point of summer play, DeLost said.

"This is the third summer we've had baseball at Waukegan," DeLost said. "We're trying to develop players and see them in different positions. We're also trying to get guys quality at-bats in pressure situations. It's all about seeing as much baseball as possible to get them more experience."

New season, new coach, new identity

Gurnee American Legion baseball looks to enter upper echelon

Photos by Sandy Bressner

But Ziefert is out to change that.

"Everyone circles Barrington and Libertyville on their schedule, but no one circles us," Ziefert said. "We want that to change. We want to win district and state and then go to Kentucky. This group is talented and hard-nosed enough to do it. We want to completely change our identity; that's why we started calling ourselves the River Dogs this year."

And the identity the team hopes to achieve mirrors that of its coach, who's also an assistant to Cory Domel on the College of Lake County's baseball team.

"I focus on the little things; I've seen it work on every level," said Ziefert, who played baseball at Carmel before graduating in '99. "Some teams want to come in and hit the hell out of the ball, but my philosophy is to come in and put pressure on the defense. Hitting a homerun is last on my list of priorities."

The River Dogs have several players who have already adopted that philosophy, according to Ziefert.

"I have to tip my cap to Sean Lavery right now," the coach said. "I ask him to do the little things, like lay down bunts, and he does it. He plays his heart out. He just loves to play the game. Derek Koford has also done an understated job in the outfield. He has a good arm and he plays aggressively."

While homeruns may be at the bottom of Ziefert's priority list, shortstop Adam Worthington has been hitting plenty of them — five, in fact, in seven games.

"Adam's been huge for us offensively," Ziefert said. "He's also done a great job in the field. I told him after one of his homeruns that we might need him to lay down a bunt and he said okay. He takes coaching well, which can be difficult sometimes when dealing with a player of his talent."

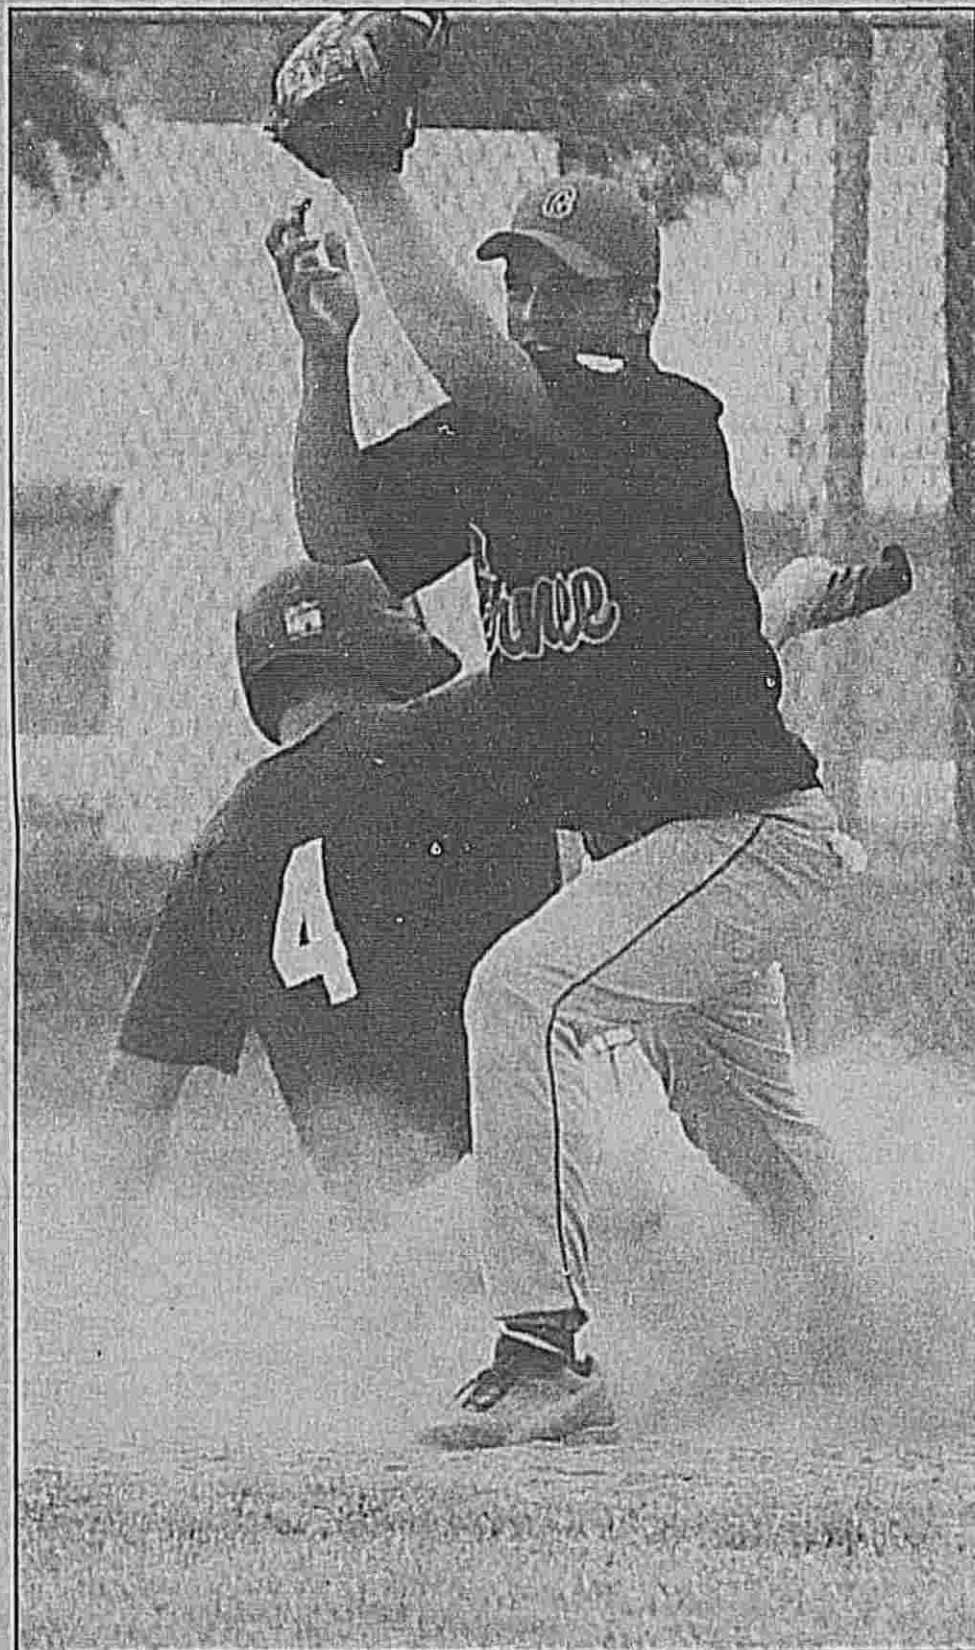

Worthington, who will play at the University of Illinois-Chicago next year, also serves as the ace of the pitching staff, although Ziefert will likely save him for the biggest games.

"That's just natural to save him for the better opponents," Ziefert said. "But it's not like we have Adam and then three throwaways. Brian Behnke, Chadd Ori and Bryan Vos can all pitch. I have four pretty solid starters."

With so much talent in place, and a hot start under their belts, Ziefert is confident the River Dogs can make this a season to remember in Gurnee.

"Physically we're okay, we just need to work on some mental things like understanding the system and knowing the signs," Ziefert said. "But if we play within ourselves we're a darn good team. And anything's possible come tournament time."

Long established as an area containing some of Lake County's best basketball and football talent, Gurnee has seldom been able to claim the same about its baseball players.

While the village's teens have gone on to lead Warren High to deep postseason runs on the football field and basketball court in recent years, WTHS has just three regional baseball titles in its long history. However, two of those titles have been in the last decade, signaling a possible upswing in the baseball talent base.

Ed Ziefert, first-year skipper of the American Legion Post 771 team, thinks so.

"Physically, we're a darn good baseball team," said Ziefert, whose team also contains players from Antioch and Vernon Hills high schools. "We have the talent and the capability to win a District 10 title and our district's one of the toughest in the state."

Ziefert's claims appear well founded, as Gurnee currently sits at 6-1, with three of its wins coming against top District 10 teams Deerfield, Barrington and Grayslake. The problem, however, is no one outside of Gurnee seems to agree.

Reloading time for Grayslake

Rams basketball squad looks solid despite loss of Centella, others to graduation

By Rob Backus
Sports Editor

Success, postseason or otherwise, has been hard to come by for Grayslake's boys' hoops program. The school has just three regional titles in its history and when the Rams do win, they have usually been unable to maintain that momentum with just a handful of back-to-back winning seasons to their credit.

And when Tim Bowen came more than five years ago from a successful Warren program that had just won consecutive sectional titles, he was expected to finish what former coach Greg Groth had started with two straight regional titles in 1999 and 2000. However, success eluded Bowen and the Rams in the onset of his tenure at Grayslake as he won just 30 games in his first four seasons.

That all changed last season as the team, led by Brian Centella's 20 points per game, finished 20-8 and gave Fox Valley Conference rival and eventual sectional finalist, Lake Zurich a run for its money in the regional title game.

But Centella's now gone, having moved on to Loras University in Iowa, as are a host of other regulars including forwards Doug Hanson and Rob Vaughan and starting point guard Andy Crouch.

With so much talent, and a good portion of the scoring, absent from last year's team, you'd think Bowen would have a massive rebuilding project on his hands. But Bowen would say you'd be wrong.

Instead of rebuilding, the Rams have simply reloaded and have performed well throughout the summer, according to Bowen.

"The summer's been going well; we're well above .500," Bowen said. "We've been in four tournaments and we've done well in almost all of them. I don't know what the season will be like, but if this kind of play continues the potential is there for good things to happen once the season starts."

That's because, although the Rams lost a trio of talented players, they do return the dynamic duo of senior forwards Elias Washington and Travis Guy, who were the team's second and third leading scorers last season. And the two appear poised to pick up right where Centella left off in March.

"Travis and Eli have been fantastic," Bowen said. "They're projecting to be our leaders both on offense and defense. I think that Travis will be a vocal leader for us and if Eli keeps playing the way he did at the (Northern Illinois University) team camp, he can be a real floor leader for us."

The two already appear to be embracing their new leadership roles.

"We just have to try and take over for Brian," Guy said. "Now our job is to be that role model for the incoming juniors and play to the best of our ability. We'll have a lot of support because the seniors all know their roles, but I also know that Eli and I will be close to 50 percent of our scoring this year."

Washington is also confident in his ability to take over the leadership reins.

"We have to work together and give everyone else support," Washington said. "We'll miss the guys who graduated, but we have the guys to replace them."

Indeed, in addition to the continued emergence of Guy and Washington, several other players have stepped to the forefront this summer.

doing a good job up front. He's having a Rob Vaughan-like summer," Bowen said. "Mike Morgan is also working hard to improve his game. But the biggest improvement and the biggest surprise so far has been Max Gutowski."

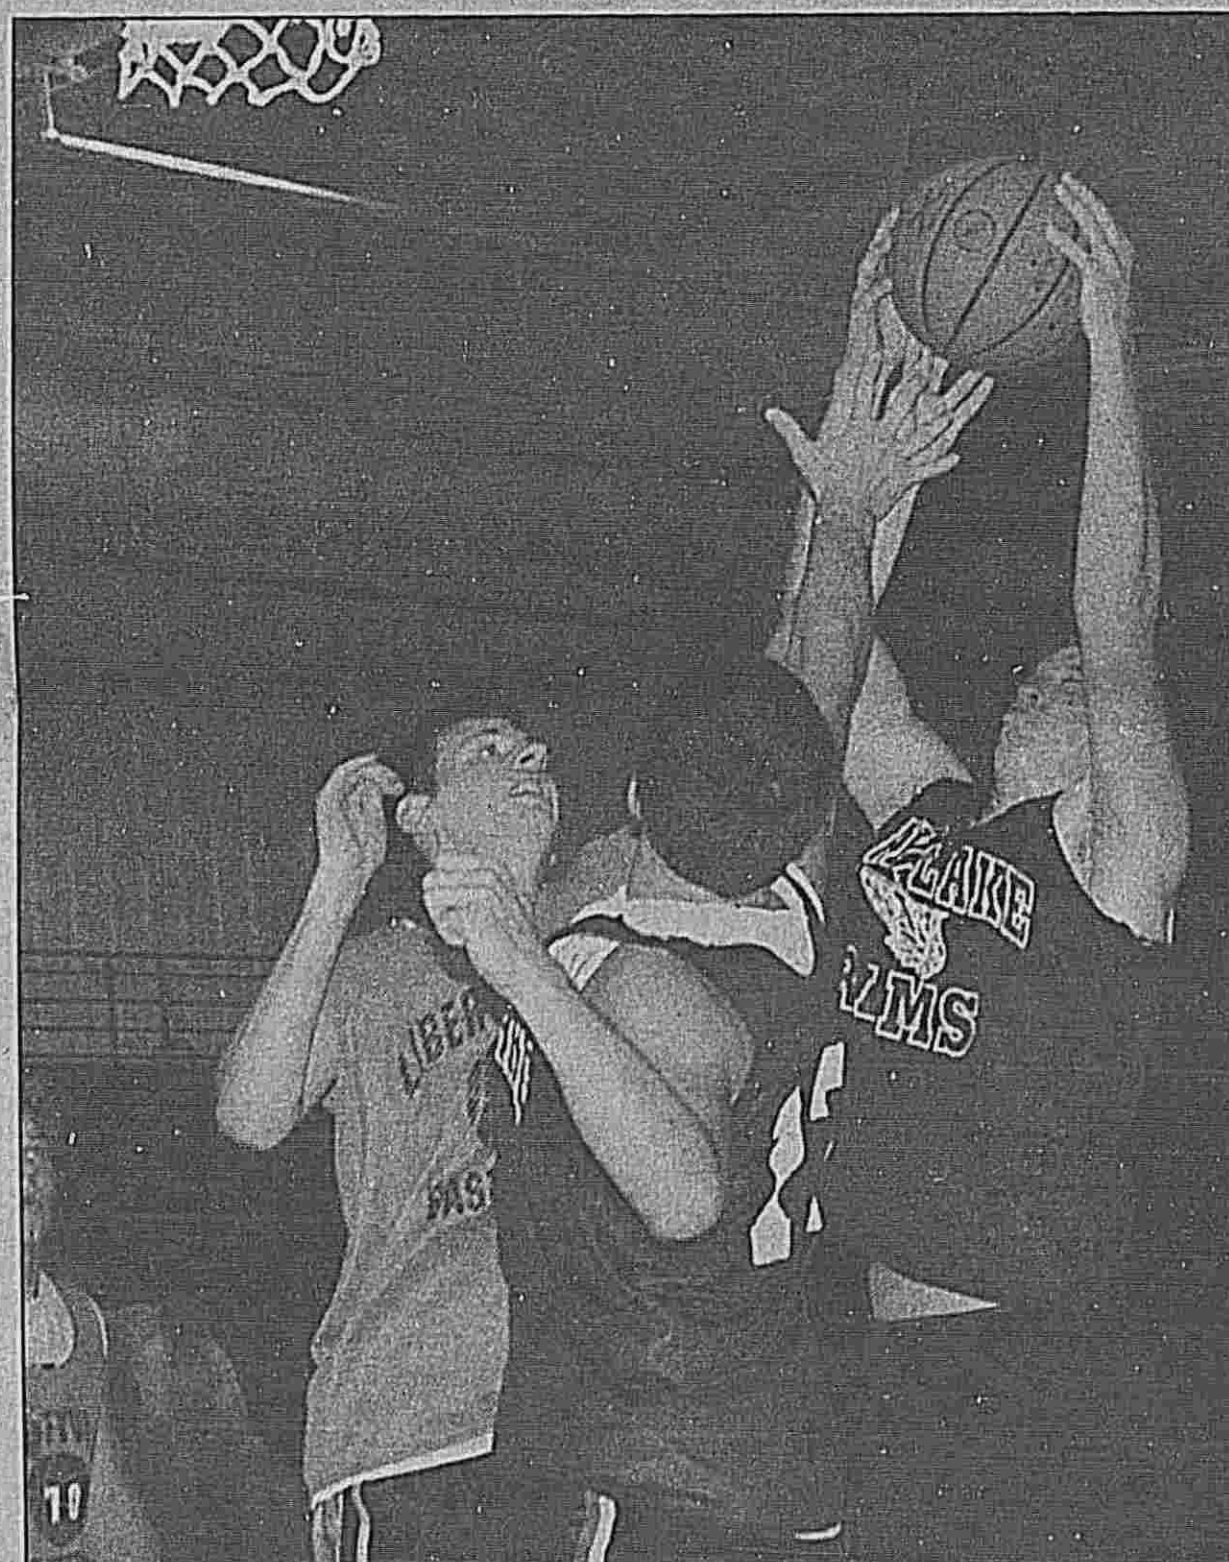

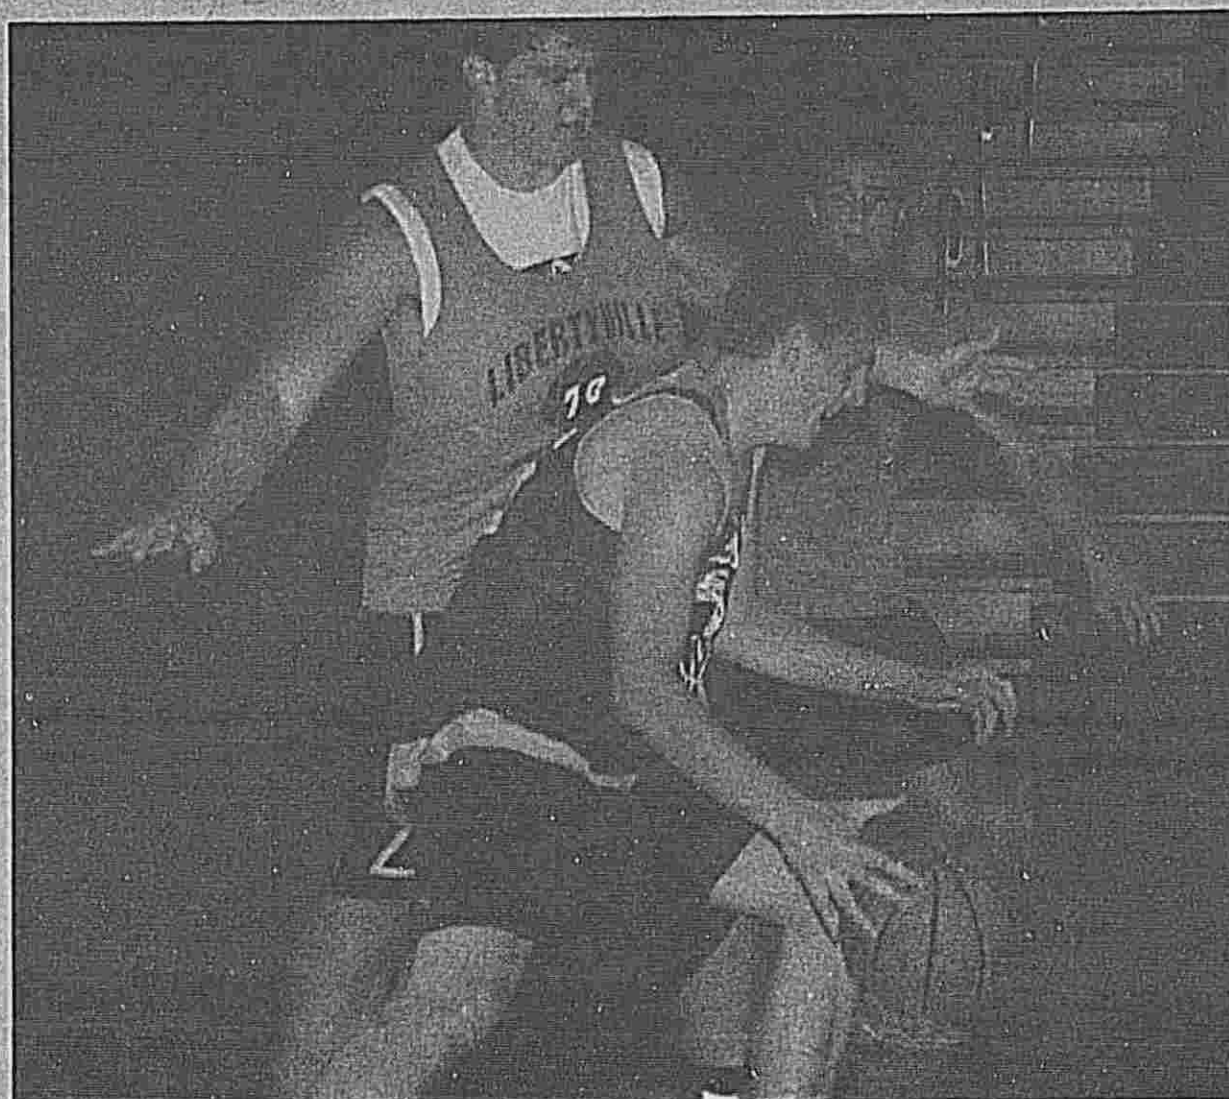

"We're still looking for a point guard to step up and lead, but Chris Brown has done a good job at that this summer. Steve Delger will play some point for us, too."

As far as newcomers go, junior Gerry Martinez has stood out, according to Bowen.

"He's our most notable newcomer," Bowen said. "He had a great NIU camp and we're trying to get him in position at either (power forward) or (center). He works hard and he's a smart kid with a lot of potential."

While Bowen would best be described as optimistic about his team's chances for the upcoming season, Guy has made a bit bolder prediction.

"We're looking to be better than last year's team," Guy said. "The seniors have all been together since sixth grade. We're all best friends and we know each other's strengths and weaknesses."

Panther coach seeks better things in sophomore campaign

By Dan Patrick

Sports Reporter

Rebuilding has been a word within second-year Panther basketball coach Mark Petrynek's vocabulary since he began his tenure at Round Lake. After a tough one-win campaign in 2004-05, Petrynek doesn't have just rebuilding to do - he's got to do the building first.

But the second-year coach has taken some steps by instituting summer camps and tough discipline policies that should help the Panthers finally shake the Round Lake sports curse.

"I think we'll have a good year, maybe not in the terms of everybody else, but in the terms of actually being competitive," Petrynek said. "The kids are feeling very, very confident and I think we should be able to accomplish a little bit more this year."

With better participation for this go-round, Petrynek has found the ability to institute his will more freely than last season. At some points during last year's campaign, Petrynek was forced to play with as few as eight players, but with better numbers, the coach is finally able to fully do his job.

"Last year, I was kind of easygoing because when you have the history of having very few kids retained during the whole season," Petrynek said. "This year, it's a different story. The kids who don't want to accommodate the rules are being told not to bother. We're going to do this the right way. Quite a few kids have embraced this and worked hard."

Petrynek has always spoken about the rewards of coaching good people as opposed to simply good basketball players. Such a philosophy has not been easy on Round Lake's win record since the coach's arrival last season, but it has struck a chord with RLHS administrators.

"They're not getting killed and at Northwestern this weekend, they actually started winning and feeling good about themselves," Petrynek said. "We have two returning players and we have some that want a second chance but I am going to air on the side of following the rules that I have. We're getting a few more kids that are committed all the way through."

"The team's got to have a B average. That's the goal; I want them to be well-rounded, not just be good players but good people all around."

Petrynek's returning talent has been whittled down to two players. Senior stand-outs John Paulsen and Brian Mendralla showed flashes of brilliance last season and Petrynek is expecting more of the same from his two veterans.

Mark Petrynek
Round Lake basketball coach

"Brian Mendralla is just having a blast out there and he's showing a lot of leadership," Petrynek said. "John Paulsen is working with weights...but he actually did well at Northwestern even though he isn't the biggest body out there. He scored a lot of times at will, he played pretty good defense and he left an imprint."

There will also be some veteran help for Paulsen this season in the form of senior Nick Anchor. After sitting out his junior year, Anchor has returned to give the Panthers some added strength down low.

"Nick Anchor didn't play last year, he played his sophomore year and I think he waited a year to see what it was like before he committed," Petrynek said. "He's come out and he's helped us a little bit in rebounding, he's a strong young man and he should give (Paulsen) a little help down low."

Paulsen himself has seen some improvement in his team over the last year. Despite the low returning numbers, he believes the Panthers have made some strides toward playing as a singular unit as opposed to the one-on-one basketball that has not paid dividends in the past.

"I think we're doing a lot better than we were at this point last year," Paulsen said. "We're working together a lot better and I think we should do some better things next year. That's one of my goals is to get the team to play together so we can win more games."

Street-style ball has long been a thorn in the Panthers' paw, but Petrynek is slowly getting his team to play team-ball. The Round Lake coach boasted about his team passing 23 times before a shot during last weekend's Northwestern tournament. While it won't make for the most entertaining form of basketball, this sort of a pass-first approach has been a game fundamental for years.

"We've got some young guys who are coming along and are finding out some different ways of playing," Petrynek said. "They've been used to playing by themselves and doing their own dribbling, but I've finally got them to play as a team."

With only one win to their credit all season long, the Panthers have no way to go but up for next year's campaign. As more and more of his players buy into the coach's concept, Petrynek is certain his time could surprise some in the winter.

"I'm looking forward to some better things," Petrynek said. "I won't guarantee anything in terms of wins and losses, but I think we'll finally be competitive this season. They're taking ownership of our team and that is good to see."

The work has just begun for Libertyville hoopsters

Wildcats seek strong follow-up to '04-'05 regional championship run

By Dan Patrick
Sports Reporter

With the NBA Finals just wrapping up, basketball has fallen into the back of the average sports fan's mind. However, for the Libertyville Wildcats hoops team, basketball has become anything but a distant memory.

Despite the official start of the season months away, the Wildcats are working on improving last season's run. Wildcat coach Scott Bogumil compares the scorching summer months to a preseason tune-up for his players. Luckily, the players themselves have embraced the summer sessions and are working hard to improve their skills during the summer months.

"Summer's like spring training for baseball, we're playing well, a lot of guys are getting better, we're playing a lot of guys, so it's been a pretty productive summer," Bogumil said. "Attendance has been good even though some guys are having to shuffle between sports with baseball and football and other things taking up their time, but everything has been going really well."

The Libertyville faithful should see a roster of familiar names amongst the Wildcat movers and shakers in the summer leagues. While the team still has some work to do in the College of Lake County league and other tournaments, numerous players have already stepped up their games in preparation for the 2005-06 campaign.

Scott Bogumil

"Matt Morgan's doing a nice job, he's a returning starter from last year, Joey DiMicco, Ryan Jennings and Mike Bobich are all doing well for us," Bogumil said. "There really haven't been any surprises with any of the players this summer. We're a really deep, talented team, but no one's really emerging other than Matt Hogan who's been getting a lot of press, but as the old cliché goes, on any given night, anyone can step up."

While the stars are Wildcat veterans, there have been some youngsters who have shown their willingness to rise to the top of the Libertyville ranks. With so many young guns ready to usurp some veterans on the team, coach Bogumil might have a tough time finalizing next season's roster.

"We've got some young kids like Matt Clark, Matt Gaffigan, Bobby Hogan have done a really nice job in the summertime," Bogumil said. "We're only a few weeks into the summer and they've already gotten better every week. Some of these young guys are improving and they should continue to get better with time."

One of the keys to the success of any team is a good farm system and Libertyville has plenty of crops ready to be harvested in the future. The Wildcats have scheduled camps throughout the summer and coach Bogumil is pleased with the way the camps have turned out, both in terms of attendance and the overall talent level of the youngsters he has seen.

"We've been doing really well in the camps, the numbers are way up from where we were at this time last year," Bogumil said. "Hopefully, that'll translate into some good things for us in the future, but we'll have to wait and see. As for now, I'm pleased with the way the camps have turned out for us."

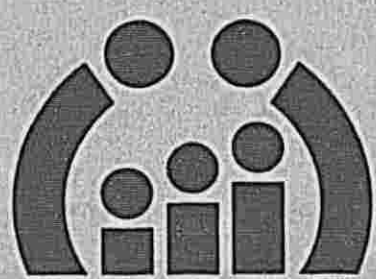

Overall, Libertyville's coaching staff is quite pleased with the progress the team has made over the course of the summer of 2005. Unfortunately for the Libertyville players, the season has only just begun and so has the work in the gym.

"They're working hard for me, but that's exactly what every coach expects out of his players," Bogumil said. "We should be able to do some things next season but this is where it begins. While it's not as structured as it is during the regular season, we still get a lot of important work done here in the summer."

During this fun summer holiday. Please be responsible! Don't drink and drive; a car or a boat! We all know not to drink and drive a car but do we ever think about boating? It's fun and exciting, but just as dangerous if alcohol is involved. If you do drink, please have a designated driver!

★ Think - Be safe! ★

INFO ON DRINKING & DRIVING FROM WWW.MADD.ORG

- Impairment is not determined by the type of drink, but rather by the amount of alcohol ingested over a specific period of time. (NIHS, June 2003)
- Beer is the drink most commonly consumed by people stopped for alcohol-impaired driving or involved in alcohol-related crashes. (NIHS, 2003)
- Binge drinking has been defined as at least five drinks in a row for men and four drinks in a row for women. (Wechsler et al, 2002)
- A standard drink is defined as 12 ounces of beer, 5 ounces of wine, or 1.5 ounces of 72-proof distilled spirits, all of which contain the same amount of alcohol -- about .54 ounces. (NIHSA, 2002)
- The average person metabolizes alcohol at the rate of about one drink per hour. Only time will sober a person up. Drinking strong coffee, exercising or taking a cold shower will not help (Michigan State University, 2002)
- About three in every ten Americans will be involved in an alcohol-related crash at some time in their lives. (NIHSA, 2004)
- Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for people from 2 to 33 years old. (NIHSA, 2004)
- In 2003, 30 percent of all fatal crashes during the week were alcohol-related, compared to 53 percent on weekends. For all crashes, the alcohol involvement rate was 5 percent during the week.
- Alcohol-related fatalities are caused primarily by the consumption of beer (80 percent) followed by liquor/wine at 20 percent. (Runge, 2002)
- The impact of alcohol involvement increases with injury severity. Alcohol-involved crashes accounted for 10 percent of property damage only crash costs, 21 percent of non fatal injury crashes; and 46 percent of fatal injury crash costs. (NIHSA, 2002)

ATTENTION PET OWNERS We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals

If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.

*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.

*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.

*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

ORDINANCE NO. 2005-08-04

AN ORDINANCE ADOPTING PREVAILING WAGE RATES TO BE PAID TO LABORERS, MECHANICS AND OTHER WORKERS PERFORMING CONSTRUCTION OF PUBLIC WORKS FOR THE ROUND LAKE AREA PARK DISTRICT

WHEREAS, the State of Illinois has enacted the Prevailing Wage Act, approved June 26, 1941, as amended, being 820 ILCS 1300.01 through 1300.12 (the "Act"); and

WHEREAS, the Act requires that during the month of June of each calendar year the Board of Commissioners of the Round Lake Area Park District investigate and ascertain the prevailing rate of wages, as defined in said Act, in the "locality" of the Park District for laborers, mechanics and other workers performing construction of public works for the Park District.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Commissioners of the Round Lake Area Park District, Lake County, Illinois, as follows:

SECTION 1: To the extent and as required by the Act, the general prevailing rate of wages in this locality for laborers, mechanics and other workers engaged in the construction of public works coming under the jurisdiction of the Park District is hereby ascertained to be the same as the prevailing rate of wages for construction work in Lake County as determined by the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois (the "Department") as of June 1, 2005, a copy of that determination being attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference. As required by said Act, any and all revisions of the prevailing rate of wages by the Department shall supersede the Department's June determination and apply to any and all public works construction undertaken by the Village. The definition of any terms appearing in this Ordinance which are also used in the Act shall be the same as the definitions specified in the Act.

SECTION 2: Nothing herein is intended to apply or shall be construed to apply said prevailing rate of wages as herein ascertained to any work or employment performed on behalf of this Village except public works construction to the extent required by the Act.

SECTION 3: The Park District Secretary shall publicly post or keep available for inspection by any interested party in the park district office this determination of prevailing rate of wages. A copy of this determination or of the current revised determination of prevailing rate of wages then in effect shall be attached to all contract specifications.

SECTION 4: The Park District Secretary shall promptly file a certified copy of this Ordinance with the Secretary of State of Illinois in Springfield.

SECTION 5: Within thirty (30) days after filing a certified copy of this Ordinance with the Secretary of State, the Park District Secretary shall cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the area a notice that this determination is effective and constitutes the determination of this public body.

SECTION 6: The Park District Secretary shall mail a copy of this Ordinance to any employer, to any association of employers, and to any person or association of employees, who have filed their names and addresses requesting copies of any determination stating the particular rates and the particular class of workers whose wages will be affected by such rates.

SECTION 7: If any section, paragraph, clause, or provision of this Ordinance shall be held invalid, the invalidity thereof shall not affect any of the other provisions of this Ordinance.

SECTION 8: All Ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed to the extent of such conflict.

SECTION 9: This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from after its passage, approval and publication as provided by law.

PASSED THIS 9th DAY OF June, 2005.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the State of Illinois has enacted "An Act regulating wages of laborers, mechanics and other workers employed in any public works by the state, county, city or any public body or any political subdivision or by any one under contract for public works," approved June 26, 1941, codified as amended, 820 ILCS 130/1 et seq. (1993), formerly Ill. Rev. Stat., Ch. 48, Par. 39s-1 et seq. and

WHEREAS, the aforesaid act requires that Lincolnshire-Prairie View School District 103, Lincolnshire, Illinois, investigate and ascertain the prevailing rate of wages as defined in said Act for laborers, mechanics and other workers in the locality of said District employed in performing construction of public works, for said District.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF DISTRICT NO 103:

SECTION 1: To the extent and as required by "An Act regulating wages of laborers, mechanics and other workers employed in any public works by the state, county, city or any public body or any political subdivision or by any one under contract for public works," approved June 26, 1941, as amended, the general prevailing rate of wages in this locality for laborers, mechanics and other workers engaged in the construction of public works coming under the jurisdiction of this District is hereby ascertained to be the same as the prevailing rate of wages for construction work in the Lake County area as determined by the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois as of June 2003, a copy of that determination being attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference. As required by said Act, any and all revisions of the prevailing rate of wages by the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois shall supersede the Department's June determination and apply to any and all public works construction undertaken by the District. The definition of any terms appearing in this Resolution which are also used in aforesaid Act shall be the same as in said Act.

SECTION 2: Nothing herein contained shall be construed to apply said general prevailing rate of wages as herein ascertained to any work or employment except public works construction to this District to the extent required by the aforesaid Act.

SECTION 3: The District shall publicly post or keep available for inspection by any interested party in the main office of the District this determination or any revisions of such prevailing rate of wage. A copy of this determination or of the current revised determination of prevailing rate of wages then in effect shall be attached to all contract specifications.

SECTION 4: The Assistant Superintendent for Business shall mail a copy of this determination to any employer, and to any association of employers and to any person or association of employees who have filed their names and addresses, requesting copies of any determination stating the particular rates and the particular class of workers whose wages will be affected by such rates.

SECTION 5: The Assistant Superintendent for Business shall promptly file a certified copy of this Resolution with both the Secretary of State Index Division and the Department of Labor of the State of Illinois.

SECTION 6: The Assistant Superintendent for Business shall cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the area a copy of this Resolution, and such publication shall constitute notice that the determination is effective and that this is the determination of this public body.

Don't forget the closing costs

Rising home prices and interest rates still point to a sellers' market, making it more difficult for many prospective buyers to find an affordable place to live. And when they do find a "home sweet home," they must then see how to stretch their savings to afford all the fees involved in the home purchase — beyond just the down payment. Whether you are buying a condo, townhouse or any other type of housing, these fees are often grouped under the title of closing costs. Although many monies are paid out at the end of the home-buying process, others will be paid throughout your journey to home ownership.

Closing costs do vary from state to state. Regardless of where you want to live, the fees cover the administrative and loan fees required to secure you as the buyer of a home. It is often difficult to pin down the exact dollar amount for these fees in advance. But you can get a rough idea of how much they will cost so you are not left short come the day of your closing.

Closing-cost calculators are a good tool to use. You can often find these online at lender Web sites or by searching a Web-based search engine. Your mortgage loan officer or real estate attorney may be able to provide you with estimates as well.

Here are some of the common closing costs and estimates, courtesy of www.addiemae.com, a site that provides mortgage rates and guides for home loans:

- Administrative fee: $50 - $100
- Application fee: $50 - $100
- Appraisal fee: $300 - $1000
- Broker processing fee: $400 - $500
- Courier fee: $25 - $50
- Credit report fee: $50 - $75
- Flood check fee: $15 - $25
- Lender documentation preparation fee: $50 - $250
- Lender processing fee: $100 - $300
- Lender underwriting fee: $150 - $675
- Recording fees: $20 - $125
- Document preparation fee: $50 - $200
- Attorney fee: $500 - $700
- Mortgage insurance: $200
- Property taxes: 2 to 8 prepaid payments (Taxes vary according to your area of residence.)

If you are unfamiliar with any terminology used during the purchase of your home, it may be wise to educate yourself with common mortgage/real estate jargon. Your lender may have a brochure you can read, or you can visit a Web site like www.ourfamilyplace.com/homebuyer/glossary.html and search its mortgage glossary.

FUTURE PLANS

S If your family is one that prefers a spacious environment, or has plans for future growth, then the two-story, country style Teg (403-30) might be right for you. The beautiful wooden exterior lends a quiet charm to this elegant home.

The 2,030 square foot second floor of this plan contains the main sleeping areas. A huge master suite occupies one corner of this floor. There is plenty of room for a king-sized bed and there is a bay window for enjoying the outside view. Additional amenities in the master suite include his and her walk-in closets and a large private bathroom with vaulted ceiling, twin basins and spa. Two more bedrooms, ideal for younger children, are nearby. A full bathroom, along with a linen closet, laundry chute to the first floor, and extra storage area are in the connecting hallway.

Two more large, nearly identical rooms occupy the remainder of the top level. One is designated as a library/game room, and the other as the fourth bedroom. This room would work well as guest quarters.

The first floor layout provides an easy flow of movement throughout. To the left of the entry is a modest living room with a bay window facing the front yard. The expansive walk-through kitchen/family room combination is definitely the focal point of this home.

TEG

An island cook top allows the cook to prepare meals without missing any of the conversation. Formal meals may be served in the adjacent dining room, which also has a bay window. For more informal occasions, there is a very large nook that houses a walk-in pantry and has easy access to the wrap-around front porch.

The family room also has double doors that open to a small back deck that is just roomy enough for a few chairs and a barbecue. A corner fireplace keeps everyone warm and cozy. A small niche off the kitchen has a sink and laundry chute from the top floor. Extra storage space is available under the stairway.

The two-car garage has a utility room in the rear.

Den always wins for extra space

T he phrase "bonus space" may be descriptive, but at the same time, it's a very generic term. However, if that same space is a "den," home seekers know just what to expect - even while the den is about as flexible space in the home as they are likely to find.

"When couples have different viewing or reading interests, or adult children are sharing the new home for a little while longer, the den can be an ideal solution," suggests veteran condominium developer Helen Weiss.

In such situations-and again, depending on the floor plan - the den can serve as a way to stretch the popular two-bedroom-and-great room format. Dens are set apart from bedrooms and often have a personal use assigned to them; those uses include in-home offices, libraries, guest rooms, media rooms, or any combination thereof.

She added that bonus space, whether it's called a den or not, is a special commodity in a condominium "for the simple fact that so many builders don't include them, so they are a 'luxury' in a luxury residence. This additional space may be very important to the home buyer."

What to do in July 2005 ILCA landscaping offer hints

Water Wisely!

It's now July and by the latter part of June the Chicago area was already experiencing hot dry conditions mandating the proper watering of plants. The goal is to have healthy plants for aesthetic and environmental reasons, but not to waste water in doing so. The Illinois Landscape Contractors Association offers the following tips:

Select the right plant for the location.

Consider the water consumption needs of plants when placing them in naturally hot and dry locations. For example, it is not water wise to place a 'water-loving' plant such as a river birch high up on a hot west-facing berm. And yes, impatiens placed in direct hot sun do supply a great show, but to achieve that show, they require lots of water! Also, group plants with the same moisture needs together to avoid overwatering some and underwatering others.

Test the soil.

Perform a simple moisture test before simply turning on the water to 'play it safe.' The best method involves the use of a soil probe which extracts a plug of soil for inspection. Holding the soil sample, if it simply crumbles, obviously the soil is extremely dry. If, on the other hand, the sample is totally saturated, the soil is too wet and no watering should take place. (If the soil is saturated and no rain or watering had taken place recently, one should investigate because drainage may be needed. In lieu of using a soil probe, a very simple method of testing the moisture around plants is by inserting a stick, a long thick screwdriver, or a root feeder 12 inches into the root zone. Upon withdrawing, a dry shaft indicates the plant needs water.

Monitor plants.

Be aware that some plants adjacent to building structures, such as those under roof overhangs, might not receive adequate rainfall even with the heaviest rain. This is also true for plants that are along a downwind-facing wall during a rain that is occurring with high winds. Carefully check plants installed during the last couple of years, since they do not yet have adequate water-absorbing root structures.

Encourage deep roots.

The deeper the water flows in the soil, the deeper the roots will be. Frequent light-surface watering creates shallow roots that reach up toward moisture. This is true for turf as well as trees. 'Target' the water where the water is needed. Remember that most roots are in the top 18 inches of the soil and extend out to, and slightly beyond, the dripline (the ends of the branches).

Place porous hoses near the trunk of newly planted trees and out to the dripline for established trees. For plants on steep slopes, lay the majority of the hose on the high side of the root zone and let the water run down to the lower side, otherwise, water is simply being wasted.

Monitor Irrigation systems.

The advantage of an irrigation system is that it is automatic and supplies an even amount of water to the plants at set intervals. The disadvantage of an irrigation system? They are sometimes TOO automatic! If the system does not have a recommended automatic rain sensor, which shuts the system down during and after a rain, manually turn off the next watering cycle after a rainfall. Also, if there is a forecast of rain in the near future, turn off the system and let Mother Nature handle it. Inspect the system at least once a month while it is running to make sure all heads are adjusted properly (i.e., not watering the driveway) and that there are no leaks.

Get the greatest benefit from water used and try to set up a regularly scheduled program.

- Saturate each area and then allow it to dry out before watering again. (The goal is to force the roots to 'chase' the water as it penetrates deeper into the soil.

- Remember to mulch around all planted areas to reduce water loss (no more than 2-3 inches over the root zone and NO mulch up against the trunk).

- Do not allow plants to wilt before beginning a watering program. As for evergreens, if stress is apparent due to lack of water, it may already be too late. Start watering immediately.

- Remember a hose — at as low a pressure as possible without the nozzle, or a porous drip hose — is the best method of watering.

- Avoid using fine-mist-producing sprinklers which result in water loss due to wind and evaporation.

- If possible, water turf early in the morning — say around sunrise. This schedule results in less evaporation and avoids moisture laying on the turf overnight which can result in fungus problems.

Recognize the signs of underwatering:

- Soil is dry several inches below the surface
- Older leaves turn yellow or brown and drop off
- Leaves are wilted or curled

Know the signs of overwatering:

- Soil is constantly damp
- Leaves turn a lighter shade of green or yellow
- Young shoots are wilted

Which mower is right for you?

When examining options for a new mower purchase, homeowners are likely to find that they have choices. Lots of them. But it doesn't have to be overwhelming. Begin the process by asking yourself a few important questions to help narrow down the field. Then, see the outdoor power equipment to discuss your needs in more detail.

How large is my yard?

- Less than a 1/4 acre: A push electric or gas walk-behind unit is ideal for this size yard, especially if you are active and enjoy the physical aspects of the job.
  - 1/4 acre to 1/2 acre: Self-propelled gas walk-behind mowers muscle through the work for you, and are a good choice for the mid-sized yard.
  - More than 1/2 acre: For homeowners with more lawn and ample storage space, lawn and garden tractors are ideal. They also can bring the enjoyment of lawn care back into the lives of outdoor enthusiasts who aren't able to push a walk-behind mower.
- Once you determine the type of mower you need for your physical abilities and the size of your lawn, it's time to examine the features.

What do I want from my walk-behind mower?

If you've decided that a walk-behind model is right for you, take a closer look at the options. These days, walk-behind mowers offer features that add versatility and power beyond expectations.

- Mowing capabilities: The walk-behind mowers of today are great options for "getting the job done." With easy-start features and self-propelled drive trains that mow up to 4.8 mph and reduce time and physical effort, these mowers are impressive in the yard without being tough on the wallet.

- Debris collection and mulching: Features like baggers and mulchers eliminate the need for raking after mowing. With some mowers, the user can determine just how much to bag, mulch or both. Mulching also returns essential nutrients back into the soil for improved lawn health.

- Multi-functional uses: Walk-behind mowers are being manufactured with upgraded features like cruise control and a blade-brake clutch that allows the user to let go of the drive lever without the engine stopping.

What do I want from my lawn or garden tractor?

If you're investing in a lawn or garden tractor, price points vary significantly, so understanding your needs will help when trying to match them with a particular model.

- Mowing capabilities: Current lawn tractor models offer variable speeds, transmission choices and ergonomic designs like high-backed seats and electric PTO (power take off) for instant mower deck engagement. Most models offer basic debris collection and mulching options.

- Turning radius: Turning radii vary between models. Your needs are dictated by the size and shape of your lawn, including trees, corners and flowerbeds.

- A total lawn-care system: Owning a lawn or garden tractor makes other yard care projects easier with the help of attachments like aerators, spreaders and sprayers. A garden tractor, with its higher horsepower, is the powerful choice for people who want to use ground-engaging attachments.

Keep kids safe in your yard this summer

Each spring, homeowners everywhere start their lawn mowers, tractors and hedge trimmers to keep their green spaces looking great. What's not great, though, is that some people use old, unsafe operating habits that might cause an accident involving children.

"Most of these injuries can be prevented if young children are properly supervised or simply kept out of the work area," said Heather Paul, executive director of the National SAFE KIDS Campaign. "Parents must not allow children to play in an area where someone is operating a lawn mower or riding mower or any outdoor power equipment."

To keep your yard beautiful and safe, follow these safety tips:

- Keep children away from the work area. Period. Kids should remain inside while any type of walk behind, riding or hand-held outdoor power equipment is used.
- Riding mowers are designed for just that: mowing while riding. Riding mowers have many safety features for the operator but are not built for passengers or for towing children in carts or trailers.
- Children should not be permitted to play on or around the mower when it is in use or in storage. Stop machine if anyone enters the area.
- Turn off the mower if children do enter the work area, and store the ignition key away from a parked mower when not in use.
- Clear the mowing area of any objects such as twigs, stones and toys that could be picked up and thrown by lawn mower blades.
- Always look down and behind for children before and while backing up.
- Do not allow a child to operate a riding mower, or any type of outdoor power equipment.

Only allow responsible adults who are familiar with the instructions to operate a riding mower.

If necessary, hire a babysitter for an hour or two while you're doing your yardwork. Babysitters can be a cost effective way to help you prevent injuries.

When used properly, outdoor power equipment can help keep your yard looking its best throughout the year. For a free booklet about outdoor power equipment safety, contact the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI) at 341 South Patrick Street, Alexandria, VA 22314 or visit the Web site at opei.org.

While you keep your yard beautiful, remember to keep your kids safe.

Everything about estimates

Moving day

If people spend months looking for a new home and weeks packing, why do people spend so little time finding a mover? Choosing a mover is not something to be taken lightly. If you do it properly, you'll avoid hassles and additional expenses on moving day.

The first thing you need to do is pick a time frame for your move. (The American Moving and Storage Association recommends that you begin making all your moving arrangements four to six weeks before the moving date.) Remember, most people want to move during the months of May to September, when the kids are out of school and business tends to be slower. So, if you want to move during that time of year, be sure to book in advance. If possible, move at another time of the year — you may even be able to snag a lower rate for moving off-season.

Also keep in mind that many people want to move at the beginning or the end of the month, when leases are up and mortgages are due. If you can, move in the middle of the month to help you snag both your desired mover and moving date.

Then, it's time to find someone who can do that moving for you, when you want to do it. Moving companies provide a variety of services for a range of fees. Talk with different movers to compare their services. Ask friends and neighbors or consult the Better Business Bureau for their recommendations and referrals. Then call two or three movers and ask them to come to your home to do an estimate and put it in writing. The types of estimates are:

- non-binding estimate: an approximate cost provided by the mover to give you a general cost of the move; doesn't bind the mover to the estimated cost; final charges are based on the actual weight and tariff; additional services are dealt with at delivery time and may require that the estimate be voided or revised

- binding estimate: agreement made in advance with the mover that guarantees the total cost of the move based on the quantities and services shown on the estimate; additional services at delivery time may require that the estimate be voided or revised

- not-to-exceed estimate: called different names by various movers; an estimate based on a binding estimate or on actual cost — whichever is lower

To get the best estimate, show the movers everything you want to move. Don't forget to go into the attic, basement, garage, shed, closets and underneath beds. Discuss how much they'll pack for you (and related charges) and the cost of any other services they can provide you. Anything that's not included in the estimate will be tacked on later, so be as accurate

Be sure to get an accurate moving estimate so you won't have any surprise expenses on moving day.

Now, you have a few estimates and don't know which one to choose. Estimates will differ from company to company to stay competitive, but they should be within an acceptable range. If the estimate seems too good to be true, it probably is. When a mover gives an offer that's significantly below the others, examine it carefully before accepting it. However, when dealing with personal possessions, it's best to disregard cost and go with the most reputable company.

When you are getting an estimate, also ask about payment arrangements. Many moving companies require payments in cash, certified check or money order. Most don't accept credit cards or personal checks. Know this answer in advance so you aren't stuck running to the bank on the day of your move.

Follow these tips and you won't have any surprises on moving day!

Elliot steps up to the challenge in staircase design

Just as a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, a staircase is usually thought of in the same manner, connecting the "social" main floor of a home to the "private" bedrooms on the second floor.

Today's staircases can lead in every direction: from the front, side and rear of the home; L-shaped, U-shaped, J-shaped and T-shaped routes, among others.

"As necessary and utilitarian as they are, staircases can be a real design challenge, cutting right through the middle of the home," said Mark Elliott, prominent Lakeland builder. "Therefore, the staircase needs to be flexible, in a sense, to add to the home's design rather than dictate it."

Elliott notes that a staircase can be a unique architectural element in a home, "a mixture of both style and convenience, and so it should make the most of both."

Staircases can complement expansive, airy kitchens which boast custom-designed cabinets, handcrafted granite counter tops, built-in major appliances and separate breakfast areas opening to private patios through glass sliding doors, electric and gas ranges, built-in microwave ovens, dishwashers and disposers. Luxury bathrooms include Jacuzzi-brand soaking tubs, ceramic-tile flooring, tub and shower surrounds, custom quality vanity cabinets, cultured marble sinks and separate walk-in showers with glass doors.

Skylights, whirlpool tubs and upgrades of carpeting, appliances, counter tops and flooring finish materials are popular, but nothing says luxury like a contemporary staircase.

Make friends in your new neighborhood

After you've settled into your new home, stocked the cabinets, hooked up the cable, and hung that last painting, you find yourself at a loss for a friend who can enjoy it all with you. Don't get mokey. It's up to you to take some initiative and explore your neighborhood to make new friends.

First, you have to proactively approach people. It can be awkward not knowing a soul in your new area, but think of this new community as your socializing pool. People who live in your building or on your street are potential new friends. Start with friendly banter — comment on a neighbor's yard at the mailbox, or chat with a building mate during a ride on the elevator. Then, suggest that you continue the conversation over coffee or invite the person over for a cold beverage.

Liz Bryant, a senior vice president and division manager of GMAC Mortgage, says a good place to meet your neighbors is through community events such as garage sales or block parties. "You can always walk over and introduce yourself," she writes in her monthly column. She also says meeting neighbors is good for security reasons. "They can keep an eye on your home when you're away."

Besides meeting and greeting people on the street, you can "invent" a reason for a conversation. Call it the "cup of sugar" technique. Just go up to your neighbor's door and ask to borrow a cup of sugar or an egg. Maybe you need a screwdriver to hang up your new window blinds. Whatever the reason, seize the opportunity to chat with your neighbor and, perhaps, even invite him or her to sample the cake you've made with their sugar. If you borrow something that needs to be returned, like a hammer, return it in a timely fashion. Otherwise, you might lose a potential friend instead of making one!

Another method of meeting people in your neighborhood is through volunteer work. Some organizations to look into are Habitat for Humanity, which helps build homes and shelter for the needy; United Way, a national group that concentrates on health and human services; City Year, a service organization aimed at helping young people change the world, and Literacy Volunteer, a group that's dedicated to helping people learn how to read. These activities will allow you to meet people with similar interests and values while simultaneously doing a good deed. Check your new phone book for listings of similar organizations in your area.

If you're religious, the perfect place to meet new people with similar moral values is at a local house of worship. Furthermore, you can count on these places to host many activities and gatherings that are social or altruistic.

Another great way to become part of a new crowd is to join a literary group. Think about it: You get to read books or work on your "novel" as you meet people with similar literary interests. The conversation topic is already in place so you automatically will have something in common to discuss. To find such a group in your area, check the bulletin board at your local library or book store, scan a local weekly guide's events calendar, or check out the local university's schedule of events.

You can also try the "coffee shop" method. Bring a book, plant yourself on a couch, and spend a couple of hours a week relaxing with other patrons. You'll start to recognize the regulars and build your way up to the "I know you" nod and smile. Eventually, you'll strike up some small talk. Alternatively, you could converse with the coffee servers. If, however, you find that the coffeehouse crowd just isn't your cup of java, then try a local watering hole, the laundromat, the grocery store bistro, a dog-walking park, or the local gym.

The best way to make a new friend is to simply say hi. When you see a neighbor, smile and offer a warm greeting. Cordialness can go a long way.

Mix and match:

Finding the right design combination for a bathroom

Good design is about mixing and matching. We want our homes to reflect our individual tastes and interests. It should be practical and personal. We shy away from cookie-cutter rooms filled with furnishings all in the same scale and style. What "goes together" doesn't always need to match.

These same design principles aren't limited to the family room or bedroom. They also apply to the bathroom. In fact, the bathroom is a terrific place to experiment with a mix of styles, particularly because it's often a white space waiting to be discovered. A bathroom doesn't need to be boring and bland, and it doesn't need to be eclectic and over the top. There are simple steps in finding the secret formula for mixing and matching designs in your bathroom.

Defining your bathroom shapes and spaces

The first step in a successful mix-and-match design is analyzing the space of your existing bath. Do you want to break it up into smaller areas with full or partial height walls? Do you want to add a curving partition? What sort of nooks and crannies are already there? Then, you can determine the fixtures to suit your style, since they come in an enormous range of shapes, sizes and scales. Since fixtures are usually white or neutral colored, you can clearly see their silhouettes, proportions and profiles. Ask yourself:

Is there a particular curve, line, shape or angle that defines your favorite fixture?

Can you find other pieces with that same shape so that it subtly repeats itself throughout the space as a unifying element? Or, is there a piece with a complementary curve, line or angle that would add interest to the room?

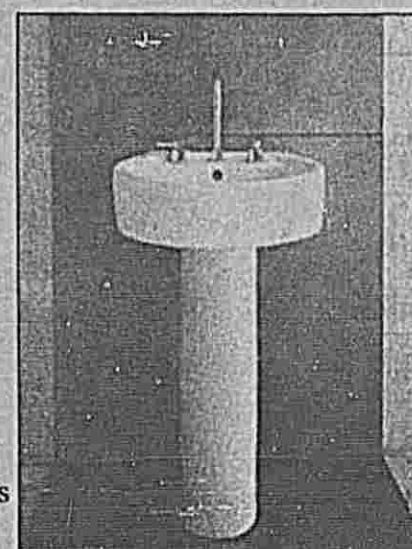

Some people prefer fixtures to be sharply angled; others prefer fixtures with a soft corner, long curve or swooping side. Even when you're mixing and matching, you want a certain shape consistency or underlying element to balance and bring the room together. When you've discovered what it is about each shape — in the abstract — that appeals to you, then you've found the main ingredient to tie the space together.

The match game

Once you've defined your bathroom's shapes and spaces, it's time to play the match game. There are finite elements to every bath: sink, toilet, tub, shower, faucets, shelving and towel bars. However, your choices for these fixtures and fittings are infinite.

You can streamline your decisions by sticking with a few traditional elements that you may want to match versus mix. You'll probably be happier, for example, if the color of your fixtures matches throughout your bathroom. That is, if the white (or whatever hue) of the sink is the same color as the tub and toilet, even if the degree of surface sheen varies between matte to high gloss. Another classic element that benefits from a true match is the finish of faucets and other hardware, whether it's chrome, brushed nickel, pewter or brass. If you stick to fixtures and fittings from the same manufacturer, you'll find that you automatically streamline the visual appearance of the space because the colors and finishes will match exactly.

Similarity, not sameness, is essential

Now that you know what you want to match, it's time to decide what you'd like to mix. Learning what it takes design-wise to create a unified space from dissimilar elements can be challenging. But you can chart a smooth path through the distinctions. When it comes to mixing, look for unique ways to pair lines, proportion, material compositions, scale and detail — rather than an obvious, arranged match. For example, Porcher's collection of European-inspired, modern designs are perfect for mixing and matching. Their Nemea shelf and towel bar shelf, designed by Italian artist and designer Enzo Mari, may not be an obvious roommate for a pedestal lavatory designed by David Chipperfield. But these two products can clearly cohabitate thanks to their common elements, including soft edges, varying depths of the projecting elements and metal finishes.

Mastering the mix

You know you've mastered the mix when you're comfortable making a truly bold choice, and exploiting the element of surprise through contrast. If the majority of the bathroom's elements are sleek and modern, adding a more traditional component such as a cabinet or armoire will help change the feel of the room by commanding center stage. The reverse is also true. You could use a vintage-style tub, such as Porcher's Ardennes cast-iron design, alongside a sleek Veneto toilet. Although these fixtures are clearly from different eras, and have different material, color and sheen finishes, they do have a similar voluptuousness in their transitional curves that permits, and even encourages, their use together.

The Golden Rule

To find the right recipe for the mix that suits you, take a lesson from the masters. Strip your needs and tastes down to their essences, and put function first. Once you discover why certain designs seem to feel right together, and what those elements are that you care about most, you'll be able to create a space that really works for you — and your highly personal mix.

Remove allergy triggers in your home

When most people think of allergies, they automatically think their home is a safe haven from sniffing, sneezing and watery eyes. Although you might have the cleanest home on the block, allergy triggers could still be lurking inside.

"In the cooler months, as people make their homes warm and well-sealed against cold air, the atmosphere becomes a haven for dust mites, pet dander and molds," said Dr. Anna Marie, The Weather Channel's health specialist and host of the syndicated better-living show, "Your Life With Dr. Anna Marie." "These can all cause sneezing, itching and watery eyes, congestion, and a runny nose."

Recent reports state that it may be irritants, not germs, that cause chronic colds.

When the furnace kicks on, dust that has settled into the carpet, atop bookshelves and beneath furniture gets stirred up and cycled through the air. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, indoor levels of many air pollutants may be two to five times, and in some cases more than 100 times, higher than outdoor levels.

According to Dr. Anna Marie, here are some suggestions to help reduce indoor allergens and help you stay sniffle-free.

- To get rid of mold, clean the areas with bleach. Try a solution of 5 percent bleach and a small amount of detergent to 95 percent water.

- Keep a humidity level of 30 percent or 40 percent in the house to make conditions for mold growth less optimal. This can be achieved through the use of an automatic whole-home humidifier.

- Add a whole-house air filter to your furnace. A typical throwaway furnace filter traps only about 15 percent of indoor air pollutants. Laboratory tests show that whole-house electronic air cleaners, can eliminate up to 99.5 percent of pollen, spores and ragweed. According to Aprilaire, the technological advancement of its filter combined with electronic components allows it to be one of the most efficient air cleaners on the market. It also requires the filter to be changed only once a year.

- To control animal dander, keep animals out of your bedroom and have them groomed weekly.

- To control dust mites, clean and dust more frequently. Use an airtight, allergy-proof plastic cover on all mattresses, pillows and box springs.

- Shampoo or replace your carpet or remove the carpet altogether.

By taking these simple steps to improve indoor air quality, your home will once again be a safe haven for you and your family.

How to hire a plumber

Think about the last time you purchased a car. Chances are you didn't go to the Yellow Pages, choose a dealership at random, and buy your car from the first lot you visited. Many times, though, this scenario describes the way homeowners find a plumber — they look in the phone book and call the plumber with the largest ad or the first one listed. But much like purchasing a car, finding a qualified plumber requires research and comparison shopping.

Identifying a plumber

The first step in finding a good plumber is to ask family and friends for recommendations of professionals they've hired in the past. Other good sources of referrals include contractors, real estate agents and your local plumbing supply store. Your city may even be able to provide a list of recommended plumbers who are familiar with the codes in your area.

Garry Gage, a 25-year West Coast plumbing veteran, points out that it is also important to keep in mind that there are two different types of plumbers — those who handle repairs and those who specialize in new construction and remodeling.

"Repair plumbers should be called in for such items as clogged sinks, leaky faucets or emergency situations," notes Gage. "The second type of plumber works on larger projects like replacing failed plumbing throughout the home or plumbing a new addition."

When asking for referrals, be sure to check the type of job the plumber was called in to accomplish. Also, determine if the plumber specializes in residential or commercial work.

What to look for/in a qualified plumber

There are a number of qualifications which can set a professional plumber apart.

- State license or certification — Many states require a license or state certification for plumbers working in that state. Call to verify that the license is current and check if there are any active complaints against the license.

- Insurance — Be sure that the prospective plumber you are considering is fully insured, having both workers' compensation and liability insurance. Your selected plumber should be able to provide you with a copy of his or her insurance policy.

- Better Business Bureau — Contact your local Better Business Bureau to ascertain if any complaints have been filed against your potential candidate.

Questions to ask

When you have narrowed the list, ask two or three plumbers to your home to survey the job and provide a written estimate that includes a materials list. The contract should spell out the scope of the project, any items that are excluded and the payment terms.

When obtaining a quote, one of the most important questions to ask your plumber is the type of materials to be used. Remember, a plumbing part defect has the potential to cause water damage to your home or create an indoor swimming pool in what once was your basement.

Look for:

• Quality materials

Don't let your plumber install products made with inexpensive and inferior materials. Ask for quality materials, often with recognizable brand names that offer manufacturers' warranties to the consumer. You may pay more for these parts initially, but you will be glad you did if there ever is a problem or parts need replacing.

• Length in business/references

Ask each plumber how long he or she has been in business and if you have not been personally referred, ask to speak to several people who can vouch for the quality of their work and whether they completed the work on time and within budget.

• Permits

Be sure to ask the plumbing professional whether they will be responsible for obtaining all necessary permits.

• Service guarantees

Does the plumber guarantee the work? This is an important point if there are any problems that need fixing after initial installation.

• Safety commitment

Accidents can happen with almost any home improvement project. So ask your prospective candidate what steps he or she will take to prevent injuries and property damage. A common problem when installing copper pipe is a solder torch that gets too close to dry wall or wood joists in tight spaces. Non-metallic alternatives, like CPVC pipe, are solvent cemented (not soldered), so the risk of fire is eliminated.

• Clean up

Ask the plumber how he or she intends to leave the work area once the job is completed. You don't want to be cleaning up after a plumber for hours after they've left your home. Also, ask about disruption during the project. For instance, if the plumber uses CPVC pipe, you won't have to worry about metal/copper filings to pick up or oil that may spill on your carpet and flooring.

• Pricing

Compare prices, but remember the cheapest quote isn't necessarily the best plumber for the job. An experienced, qualified plumber may charge more for the work, but could save you money in the end by doing the job right and using the best materials.

How to finish your floors and furniture like a pro

Refinishing furniture, woodwork and floors is much easier than most people imagine — you just have to go about it one step at a time.

According to Eric Chaimberg of Swing Paints, the country's leading manufacturer of wood finishing products, professional finishing results can be achieved if you follow several important steps.

Based on years of experience and know how, Chaimberg says the most important thing to remember is "a good start always means a good finish." And the best way to ensure a good finish is to take your time and prepare the surface properly. Be sure you have all the materials you will need before you start.

Here is a host of items Chaimberg says you will need prior to beginning any project:

- Bristle or foam brushes
- Rags or cheese cloth
- Steel wool or synthetic Pads
- Gloves
- Drop cloth

Surface Preparation

Set yourself up in a clean, well-lit area. For previously finished pieces, Chaimberg recommends you use a cleaner, such as, Circa 1850 Furniture Cleaner to remove all dirt, grime, wax and polish from the wood. For tougher stains, you may want to try Circa 1850 Super DeGooper. Any repairs that need to be done such as filling nail holes or dents should be completed after stripping butt before sanding and staining.

Sanding

The next step is to lightly sand the wood to provide a smooth uniform surface. "Sand enough to obtain the desired finish smoothness yet not enough to gouge the wood or sand through the veneer," Chaimberg says. Stripping closes the grain of the wood to the penetration of stain and finish. Sanding reopens the grain, evens out any discoloration that may have been left by a previous stain, and erases any scratches or blemishes in the surface.

Finishing

To add a protective finish to your surface, Chaimberg recommends using Circa 1850 Bowling Alley Polyurethane. "Apply this clear finish to those tired old floors or that newly stripped flea market find and you'll appreciate how fast it dries," he added. "It dries so fast you can re-coat in as little as two hours. Imagine being able to apply 3 coats in just one day."

Because of its non-yellowing clear formula, all you'll see is the beauty of the wood shining through. And your wood surface will be protected with the same hard, durable finish used on bowling alleys. Chaimberg says Circa 1850 Bowling Alley Polyurethane is recommended for use on all interior wood surfaces; including floors, cabinets, doors, furniture, and paneling. For more information or tips on finishing visit www.circa1850.com.

What's hot in home décor for 2005

If your living spaces are looking a little tired, or you're just searching for ways to bring new life to your home, you don't need a major overhaul and it won't cost a fortune. With a bit of creativity and the right tools you can turn your home into a cozy haven that's warm, inviting and inspired.

This year, feel free to mix up your materials, accessories and finishes. It's all about blending together in 2005. Don't be afraid to have antique pieces next to modern ones. That beautiful vase from Grandma's attic will look stunning on your sleek sideboard. A folksy or ornate light fixture softens the lines of a glass or metal dining table.

The spicy earth tones of the past few years are giving way to softer colors. "The bright chartreuse green is changing to a toned down, more muted shade," says Heather Degges, an interior merchandiser with Houston-based Kathy Andrews Interiors. "Home trends usually follow fashion trends, and pastels have been coming on strong. I expect we'll be seeing more pinks, blues and crisp whites."

Decorating based on price-tags is no longer the norm. Expensive pieces share space with things picked up at chain stores because homeowners like them. No longer do you need to buy an entire line from one pricey store to create a look. Seek inspiration wherever you are — from a $10 picture frame with Moroccan-inspired beading to old Hollywood glamour in the form of mirrored dressers and vanities. Let your own taste be your guide, instead of using only one company's catalog as a checklist.

Creating a personal oasis is easy when you surround yourself with objects or images that you love. Let your rooms be a reflection of your personal style and you'll never tire of them. Don't be afraid to paint walls with the rich, saturated colors you love or find fabrics that make you comfortable, from leather to linen. Take the look one step further by finding a wall mural that transports you to your favorite time or place. Image sitting on your couch gazing out at the Tuscan hillside or sipping coffee in your kitchen overlooking a Caribbean cove.

"Murals are an easy way to transform the look of a room in only a few simple steps," says Todd Imholte, president of Murals Your Way, a custom wall mural company based in Hopkins, Minn.

"We can take a photo from your favorite vacation spot, prize flower garden or almost any photo, and create a high-quality wall mural. We also have a selection of in-stock murals, so you can adorn your home with the work of Old Masters or even vintage European posters."

Home magazines can't say enough about bedrooms for kids and adults. Like never before, homeowners are thinking of innovative ways to carve out a retreat as unique as they are. Luxury sheets, personalized items and whimsical accessories are flying off the shelves in record numbers. But when it comes to kids' rooms, remember tastes change as children age. Don't spend a fortune creating a ballerina fantasy-land when your child may decide next week that she wants a soccer-themed room worthy of Mia Hamm.

Instead create a solid base of fun colors and furniture that can grow with your child's interests and needs.

"As more families are seeing home-makeover shows and decorating shows, kids are becoming more educated buyers. They're getting all sorts of ideas and the market is responding," says Degges.

Space and science-themed rooms are popular and easy to create. A wall mural of a view of the earth from the moon will inspire future astronauts. Degges recalls a camping-themed room for an outdoors-loving youngster complete with a tent-like bed canopy. Companies are also responding to the increase of sports-minded girls. Unlike past sports-themed accessories that only came in bright red and blue, these days it's easy to find fabrics, wall coverings and décor that reflect a girl's love of sports without competing with the colors of her choice.

Simple wiring repairs

Understanding the fundamentals of electrical wiring can be valuable, particularly when you're making simple repairs or home improvements. A three-way switch, for example, is commonly used in lighting circuits to turn a light on and off from two locations. They are often used at either end of a hallway or stairs. But if one of these switches needed replacement, do you have the knowledge to wire it in correctly?

Knowing electrical wiring fundamentals can also keep you and your loved ones safe. Replacing a standard receptacle outlet with a ground-fault circuit interrupter (GFCI) can greatly reduce the risk of a shock or a fire. GFCI's are similar to fuses or circuit breakers, only much more sensitive to electrical faults. But, unlike fuses or circuit breakers that depend on heavy overloads to function, GFCI's sense very small electrical faults, and cut power instantly before anyone is injured. In fact, the National Electrical Code requires them on receptacles in bathrooms, garages, around pools, and on all outside receptacles.

With this brief review of GFCI's and three-way switches, where do you go next to understand wiring fundamentals? You'll need a book that illustrates several common circuits used for lighting and receptacle outlets. Full-color illustrations are best, because you can quickly see where each color wire should go. Any library will have books on this topic, or you can purchase one from local home centers or hardware stores.

One interesting teaching aid uses the power of your home computer to explain electrical wiring. "Safe Electrical Wiring Techniques" uses on-screen color graphics and interactive exercises to assemble the most common types of electrical circuits.

One interesting teaching aid uses the power of your home computer to explain electrical wiring. "Safe Electrical Wiring Techniques" uses on-screen color graphics and interactive exercises to assemble the most common types of electrical circuits. As a circuit is shown on the screen, the user must point and click where each wire should go. The on-screen exercises go from basic concepts, all the way to point-and-click assembly of lighting circuits, receptacles, and service panels. With some practice, the user can then go inside example buildings to wire the lights and outlets. The CD runs on nearly all home computers, and costs $93 (includes shipping).
